SCENE SET TO GIVE GERMANY NEW COLONIES

That's What Paris Hears on Approach of Visit Soon by Chamberlain.

CAST EYES ON AFRICA

Diplomats to Weigh Transfer of Territory, Four-Power General Peace Pact.

(By International News Service)

PARIS—The forthcoming visit to Paris of British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and foreign Secretary Lord Halifax presages still more changing of the map of the world, International News Service learned today.

The visit will prove a fore-runner of vitally important diplomatic discussions which will lead to three major international decisions, according to authoritative quarters here.

3 Major Decisions.

These decisions will involve transfer to Germany of certain mandated colonies in Africa, the question of granting belligerent rights to the Spanish insurgents and a European four-power pact aimed at general appeasement.

International News Service learned on unimpeachable authority that the British and French government virtually have decided to return the African mandated territories to the Reich.

One of the most important indications of the way the wind is blowing will come tomorrow when Colonial Minister Georges Mandel makes a speech.

LONDON EXCITED

LONDON — (INS) — Diplomatic wires buzzed from one European chancellery to another today as Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and foreign Secretary Lord Halifax laid the groundwork for their forthcoming visit to Paris.

The new Anglo-French conference will be held in the French capital beginning Nov. 23, according to an official announcement, issued while the British government conducted soundings on numerous fronts, including an attempt to line up the European democracies against Japanese domination of the Far East.

FBI Checks Theory Arms On Nazi Ship Caused Explosion

OAKLAND, Cal.—(U.P.)—Federal agents investigated today the possibility that the Nazi steamer Vancouver was wrecked by an explosion of munitions she carried.

The theory was countered strongly, however, by Baron Manfred Von Killinger, German consul-general, who was convinced that Communists had set a time bomb outside the hull.

Nature of the blast was indefinite because salvage crews had not refloated the steamer. She was beached in the Estuary to prevent her sinking immediately after the explosion ripped open the hull, endangering passengers and crew.

Kfllinger, conducting his own investigation as local and government agencies proceeded, said the fact that the ship plates had been blown inward was "undubitable proof" that a bomb had crippled the ship.

"I think it was the work of persons incited by continued agitation against Germany by certain groups in this country," he said.

MYSTERY ATTACK

London Surgeon, Not King, Stabbed By Assailant.

LONDON—(U.P.)—The mysterious stabbing of a leading London consulting surgeon in fashionable Bond street caused reports today that an attempt had been made to assassinate King George of Greece.

The report that an attempt on the Greek King's life had anything to do with the stabbing soon was dissipated, however.

It was asserted that MacDonald bears a striking resemblance to King George of Greece.

GIVEN $63,000

PWA Grant for Fredericktown High School Approved.

A $63,000 PWA grant for a new high school building at Fredericktown was approved today at Washington, Congressman William A. Ashbrook was notified.

The grant, which local school officials believed was lost, will supplement a $77,000 bond issue passed at a recent special election. The allocation had been approved once before but the bond issue failed, and a new application was filed after the bonds were approved in September.

Miami's Homecoming Queen

Voted the most beautiful coed at Miami university last year, Mary Lou Hansgen of Portsmouth, O., ruled today as the school's homecoming queen as the Miami university football team played host to the Bobcats of Ohio university. Miss Hansgen is a senior in the school of education.

Trapped Dog, Alive Or Dead, Must Wait For 24 Hours More

CLARKSBURG, W. Va.—(U.P.)—If Sport, the Spelter "community dog," is still alive in the mine sink hole that has imprisoned him 17 days, he must wait another 24 hours before rescue workers break through the rock that holds him.

Cold rains beat down on the crew of men that has been toiling night and day for more than two weeks to save Sport, their pet, a brown and white Beagle hound. They said they could not sink a shaft to the point where Sport is believed lying before Sunday.

Using a hose and bellows, the miner-rescue workers pumped fresh air into the fissure in which Sport was trapped.

A. F. OF L. READY

Union Would Negotiate Peace With CIO, Editorial Says.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The American Federation of Labor stated today that "there can be no question but that wage-earners throughout the country and the nation as a whole want a united labor movement" and declared it was ready to negotiate an "honorable" peace with the Committee for Industrial Organization.

An editorial in the "American Federationist," of which President William Green is editor, said that the AFL's executive council "is charged with responsibility for carrying out the policy of conferences to reach a mutually acceptable basis for lasting peace, nor surrender of our rights."

"The American Federation of Labor believes the difficulties in the way of unity are not insurmountable if there are sincere and disinterested efforts to make peace," the editorial continued.

MORE RAIN DUE

Week-End Forecast Is For Cloudy And Colder Weather.

Despite an interlude of clear skies and brisk temperatures today following a blustery night, the weatherman saw the prospect of more rain Sunday.

It will be fair and slightly colder tonight while Sunday will be cloudy and cold, with rain probable, the forecast said. About one-fourth of an inch of rain, whipped by a strong wind, fell in the city last night. The temperature at noon today was 60, and yesterday's high was 70 degrees.

GIRL, 23, FACES LONG JAIL TERM

Unable To Pay, It Will Take Her 70 Days To Serve Out Fine.

Fined $100 for driving an automobile while intoxicated, Miss Josephine Swim, 23, of near Shelby, today faced the prospect of spending Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays in the county jail.

Unable to pay the fine and $6.20 court costs assessed by Mayor D. B. Young of Shelby, Miss Swim was brought here to jail late yesterday. It will require 70 days for her to serve out the fine and costs, deputy sheriffs said.

She was arrested in Shelby while driving on the wrong side of the street, and pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

CANDIDATES TO FIRE LAST OF SALVOS TODAY

Top Candidates in Buckeye Vote Drives to Converge on Cleveland.

RENEW THEIR PLEDGES

Sawyer Promises 'Militant Actions'; Bricker Hits at State's WPA.

COLUMBUS—Ohio candidates moved into the last of the front-line trenches of an arduous political battle today with a series of last-minute speeches before Tuesday's elections.

Cleveland became the bivouac city as Ohio's top candidates, Republicans and Democrats, moved on that city for a whirlwind series of rallies today.

Senator Robert J. Bulkley and Charles Sawyer, Democratic senatorial and gubernatorial candidates moved in from Cincinnati where they fired a salvo of political shots last night, while Robert A. Taft and John W. Bricker, Republican candidates for the same offices, were to arrive from Akron.

Sawyer Ends Drive.

While Sawyer made his final radio broadcast of the campaign last night from Cincinnati, there was a possibility that he might make several brief appearances over the week-end. His political opponent, Bricker, will speak over a state-wide chain Monday evening.

Bulkley and Taft will continue their battle almost up to the hour the polls open, for Taft makes a broadcast today and another Monday afternoon. Bulkley winds up his campaign for re-election Monday evening with a broadcast. He also speaks over the air lanes Sunday afternoon on "Agriculture."

Sawyer chose his home city of Cincinnati last night for the final broadside of his campaign, telling his radio audience that Ohio vot-

Strike Threat Over, Rail Lines Study Legislation.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Railroad labor and management, their wage quarrel composed and a strike threat dispelled, will confer here Monday on proposals for legislation to rehabilitate the carriers.

President Roosevelt gave assurance of his support for an effort to "put through a constructive program of legislation at the next session of congress."

Executives of the major roads decided yesterday at Chicago to drop their proposals for a 15 per cent wage cut. Nearly 1,000,000 workers had voted to strike rather than accept it.

Half-Mill Levy Will Save Lives

AN EDITORIAL

WHEN men and women of Richland county cast their votes next Tuesday there is one small ballot on which their "x" will be more than a mere vote—it will be either a message of hope, or a death sentence!

Unless victims of tuberculosis in Richland county can be given the treatment or sanitarium care needed — THEY WILL DIE.

To provide this care requires money and there is no way to get this money except through the one-half mill tax levy which Richland county voters are asked to approve.

County commissioners are obligated to care for tubercular cases in which the patient, or family, is unable to pay—but lack of funds has made it impossible to meet requirements.

A number of Richland county children and adults whose lives are endangered by tuberculosis are now being deprived of treatment or sanitarium care because of shortage of money.

An article in yesterday's paper told of some of these cases. It is unthinkable that any person—child or adult—in this prosperous county of Richland, should be allowed to waste away and finally die from this dreadful disease, merely because such a small matter as a one-half mill tax levy (50 cents on each $1,000 of real estate tax valuation) stands in the way of the right kind of treatment.

And there is the point, also, that tuberculosis is a disease that endangers others who come in contact with those who have it, even in early stages. By helping to wipe out tuberculosis you help safeguard yourself, your family and your friends.

A number of Richland county tubercular patients have been brought home from sanitariums because there is no money to keep them there.

This condition can be corrected by passage of the one-half mill tax levy next Tuesday.

Here is an instance in which those who are fortunate in the possession of health can perform a great service to others at very small cost to themselves.

Vote FOR the one-half mill tax levy. Vote to bring back hope and restore health to many Richland county tuberculosis victims.

Pickrel Predicts Sawyer Sweep; Herbert Scores Duffy Expenses

WILLIAM A. PICKREL of Dayton, former lieutenant governor, addressing an audience of nearly 800 at the final major Democratic rally of the fall campaign here last night predicted that Charles Sawyer, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, would sweep Tuesday's election by a majority of 150,000 votes.

"Having visited more than 44 counties in Ohio, I feel that I can state with some certainty the indication in the coming election," Pickrel said, "and I say to this group that the Democratic ticket will be successful from top to bottom."

Pickrel, advocating the election of the entire Democratic ticket, charged that the Republicans are now resorting to propaganda as "the last despairing hope" of salvaging something when the votes are cast.

He predicted that Sawyer would go into Cuyahoga county with a majority of 60,000 where he would add another 90,000 votes.

"The indications from all points of Ohio that I have visited, point certainly to a great Democratic victory and every candidate on the state ticket will be elected," he asserted.

"I do not say this that we should lessen our activity, but that it may encourage every worker and every interested citizen to greater activity."

Pickrel said there was some in-

G. O. P. Committee Sends $500 to Help Elect Townsendite.

The Republican National committee contributed $500 to the campaign of Walter B. Woodward, of Bellville, Townsend-backed Republican candidate for congress in the 17th district, Associated Press dispatches from Washington said today.

Woodward admitted receiving the contribution but denied that he had spent $970 in his campaign as reported in the Washington dispatch. The figures were included in a pre-election financial statement filed with the clerk of the house of representatives.

"I had spent only $485 when that report was filed and I don't know where they got $970," Woodward said today. His statement to the house clerk listed contributions totaling $689, including the $500 from the national committee.

William A. Ashbrook, Johnstown, Woodward's opponent on the Democratic ticket, reported expenditures totaling $1,927.

SPY CASE NEAR END

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The trial of three alleged Nazi spies will probably end by next Saturday, attorneys said today. Attorneys for the government expected to rest their case Monday, and the defense may occupy the rest of the week.

THOMAS J. HERBERT, Republican candidate for attorney general, in a talk at a Republican rally here last night, described Herbert S. Duffy, his Democratic opponent, as "Ohio's most expensive attorney general," costing the state "at least $168,000 more while he has been in office than John W. Bricker, the man who preceded him, in the same period of time."

Herbert, who spoke before nearly 1,000 persons at Republican headquarters, charged that Duffy mishandled the Ohio Bell Telephone rate case, collected excessive fees for liquidating the Guardian Trust company in Cleveland and diverted state funds to use in re-modeling and re-furnishing his personal office.

Other speakers at the rally were Mrs. Kathryn English Wetzel of Hamilton of the state Republican speakers' bureau; Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch who presided at the meeting; Walter B. Woodward, candidate for congress in the 17th district; John C. Friday, candidate for county commissioner, and Harry Maxwell, candidate for state representative.

The rally, one of the largest Republican meetings here in recent years, was the party's final meeting of the campaign in Mansfield.

"I have made accusations before and Mr. Duffy has denied none of them," Herbert said.

Asserting that Duffy "began ne-

It also condemned rumored un-American activities in the state

PRESIDENT IN NEW APPEAL FOR 'LIBERALS'

'Reasonable Continuity' of Present Government, Plea Made in Speech.

RENEWS THIRD TERM TALK

Executive Leaves Question Unanswered; Gives Boost to Four Candidates.

(By International News Service)

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—The nation knew today, if it never knew before, that Franklin D. Roosevelt was determined to bend every effort to perpetuate his New Deal program past 1940.

Political leaders from one end of the country to the other were appraising his appeal for election next Tuesday of "experienced and liberal" candidates who could be depended upon to support the administration and make possible a "reasonable continuity in liberal government."

The question on everyone's tongue was: "Will President Roosevelt smash all precedent and offer himself as a third-term candidate in order to retain control of a nation-wide political organization that will enable him to name his successar in the 1940 convention?

Gives No Answer.

In his radio speech last night, the president gave no answer to this question. Instead, he contented himself with warning that a return to "old-line Tory Republicanism" might well lead the country eventually to fascism or communism, and called attention to what he considered lost gains in liberal government when Taft succeeded Theodore Roosevelt and Harding followed Wilson.

Four candidates in next Tuesday's election specifically got a lot of comfort from the president's broadcast on "voting." Those whose election he asked for by name were Governor Herbert H. Lehman and Senator Robert F. Wagner, seeking re-election, and Rep. James M. Mead, aspiring to the short senate term, all of New York; and Governor Frank Murphy, of Michigan.

Refers to Dewey.

In appealing for Lehman's return to Albany for a fourth term, Mr. Roosevelt took some robust cuts at the governor's Republican opponent, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, who has been widely mentioned as G. O. P. "white hope" for '40 if he can win next week's election. Making it so obvious about whom he was talking that no name was needed, the president said Dewey was too young and inexperienced to be governor of New York even though he had been a good rackets prosecutor.

The executive's speech was not confined to the borders of any one state. In just so many words he announced that, while not all the New Deal has done has been right or successful, its "economic and social program of the past five and a half years has definitely given to the United States a more stable and less artificial prosperity than any other nation in the world has enjoyed."

HOTEL GUESTS FLEE FLAMES

CINCINNATI —(AP)— One guest was forced to jump to safety and scores of others were routed from their beds in a fire at a downtown hotel early today.

Lieut Irwin Martin said a guest in an adjoining room discovered the flames and summoned hotel employes.

Several guests were forced to to crawl along the corridors in their escape from the dense smoke, Martin said.

Ondov Convinced There's 'Much to Live For' After Year In Hospital

By JANE WILLIAMS

TODAY is an anniversary for Michael Ondov. It was exactly a year ago today that he was brought to General hospital with a broken back and his intended career as a minister apparently as badly smashed as his body.

He said then: "If I can never walk again, I don't want to live."

But today there is a different Michael in that same hospital bed.

"I've acquired patience," he said today. "Not just in the general acceptance of the word, but patience as very old people must understand the word.

Michael Ondov

"A year ago, two or three months of inactivity loomed ahead of me as an indeterminable time. I felt then that if I couldn't get up and walk again in a few months that my life was ended. But now a year has gone by and I'm still not walking.

"Specialists have told me that perhaps I'll never walk. But I know now, for I've learned it here in this small hospital room, that even if they are right—and I'll never believe them even though it takes years to get my feet and legs back to normal—that there is much to live for, so many things to enjoy, that I can still continue my studies and when they are finished find a useful place for myself in the world."

He demonstrated how much he can use his legs, told of how, over a period of almost eight months—since his operation—he has felt life returning to his paralyzed legs. The right leg is "alive" down to the ankle, and the left leg, under constant massage and exercise, shows response to the knee.

"The specialist told me when he was here that he believed the left leg below the knee would always be paralyzed. But like a con-

Traditional Foes Clash As Grid Season Enters Stretch

The mid-west and Pacific coast held the attention of the gridiron fans today as the season swung into the home stretch.

Conference championship hopes were at stake in the Big Ten, where Northwestern tackled an always dangerous Wisconsin outfit, Ohio State, co-leader with the Wildcats, tackled Purdue and Minnesota tried to take it out on Iowa for last Saturday's whipping.

It's an even keener battle on the west coast where California and Southern California, sharing the lead with four conference victories apiece, came to grips in a game that is likely will decide the title.

The intersectional card is headed by the Fordham-St. Mary's clash with the Notre Dame-Navy, Indiana-Boston College and Michigan-Pennsylvania games rating next in importance.

A headline eastern game took Pittsburgh against its neighbor, Carnegie Tech, Syracuse faced Colgate, Holy Cross met Temple and Yale tackled Brown in other attractive tilts.

Texas Christian appeared in little danger against Tulsa. Western Reserve engaged West Virginia, Toledo faced John Carroll and Xavier met Dayton in other Ohio attractions.

Mansfield invaded Ashland to renew its oldest rivalry in the only game on the district high school card today.

CHAPTER 28

Judy thought quickly as that strange voice said to her over the speaking tube, "Is this Abbey Boland?"

If she said that it was, she might learn something.

On the other hand she might involve Ronald.

Instinctively she whispered. All whispers sounded alike. "What do you want?"

"You're asking me?" the voice said. "Ready to shell out?"

She gasped, utterly lost as to her answer.

The man continued: "I'm talking plenty if you don't!"

Judy's next words slipped down the speaking tube without conscious volition: "Haven't you done it already?"

The man suddenly grew alarmed. The difference in voice texture penetrated although Judy had clung to her whisper.

"Isn't this Abbey?" the man asked. "Who is it?"

She spoke clearly in her own voice. "I think you have the wrong apartment. There aren't any Abbeys or Ronalds around here." She hung up.

The man might watch the apartment now, or he might think Ronald had rented it for an hour the night before. She could not help that. One thing she knew. There was a man who had something to say. Why? What was his secret? How was Abbey involved?

* * *

She went to the window and peered through the draperies. The man was coming down the steps. She caught sight of a bright green fedora and a large plaid checked coat. He glanced up once or twice. She could not distinguish his features at that distance in the night. She tried to memorize the quick way the man walked, his head a trifle preceding his body. He was short and slight.

When she came down to go to the theater, there was no one in sight but the limousine of people who waited for her.

Before leaving she tried to call Ronald. He was not at home, and the office telephone echoed in his empty study. Between acts at the play, she tried again.

The show was opening. It was a gala night. White ermines, minks, and jewels were abundant in the audience. One actress wore a costume that Judy had helped Cordelli design. None of this interested her tonight.

During intermissions she searched the people in the lobby. She did not see Ronald's red head. She wondered if Abbey had come. It would be like her to insist on attending this premiere.

Just as the audience was filing back before the third act curtain rose, Judy spied Abbey. She was with a young man, a stranger. She was laughing lightly.

So she had come. She could play while Ronald, whom she professed to love, was working alone somewhere, trying to save his name. Such a violent distaste shook Judy that she felt ill. Her hands were cold and her face was hot as the play went on. The actors said lines she did not hear. The people applauded scenes she did not see. She declined to go on to a night club with the party, and finally induced them to let her go home alone in a taxicab instead of giving their chauffer the trouble of taking her downtown.

* * *

She didn't go home. She gave the driver Ronald's address. He would have to come in sometime. She would wait.

He was not in so she drew her mink coat—she had been able to remove it from storage a month ago—around her shoulders and sat on the lower step of the hall in the dim light of the one feeble lamp. She was almost asleep when she heard a key in the latch.

Her heart beat rapidly and she looked up eagerly. She had no thought that Ronald might find her presence unusual or amusing. He might be in danger. She had news that he should have.

It wasn't Ronald who came in. It was an elderly man who asked her if she had been locked out and suggested that he call the janitor for her. She smiled as she shook her head.

"I'm waiting for a friend."

The man went upstairs in a small lift under the stairway and she was alone again. The clock on a tower somewhere chimed 12 times.

On the last stroke Ronald came.

His face was so drawn, his eyes so worried, his chin so stern, she drew in her breath. Then he saw her and his widened.

"Judy, has anything happened? Are you in trouble?"

Now that he was here, now that he was all right and she could touch him, her worries seemed foolish.

She wanted to see his apartment, had wanted to for a long time. But she knew he could not ask her up now. It would have been all right. Others did it. But Ronald was in the limelight, the spotlight of scandal was probing into his conduct.

Besides there was Abbey.

"Let's go across the street and have some coffee," he said.

When they were seated: "Something happened, Judy. Want to tell me about it now?"

She related the evening's experience with the man in the green hat. Ronald's face was amazed.

"Are you sure you had the right man?" he asked. "When you looked down, Judy, wasn't there anyone else in sight? Think!"

She shook her head. "No one. I ran to the window right away and looked all around. The man couldn't have gone down the steps. I'm sure of it."

"And he seemed to know Abbey?"

She nodded. Ronald shook his head. "Judy, I'm as mystified as you are."

"Then it isn't the — the party you had arranged to meet."

"No, he's tall and dresses conservatively."

Judy spoke impulsively, placing one slim hand on Ronald's arm, and scarcely noting that he covered it with strong fingers that held it fast. "Ronald, someone is framing you. Have you any idea who it is?"

He nodded. "I can't prove it, though. I can't prove anything." He smiled and released her hand. "The man I blame is the tall one with the dark clothes—the one your caller wasn't."

"Is there any way that you can find out about the jurors being fixed?" Judy insisted. "Were they lying? Did someone really do it and blame you?"

He gave a tired laugh. "Someone did it, Judy honey, and the jurors think I'm guilty. They're scared for they took the bribes. They didn't expect to be caught. Why someone would bribe them, and say I did it, I can't fathom, unless the man had a purpose of his own and used me as bait. Maybe he didn't expect it to get out and meant no personal harm to me.

* * *

"On the other hand, if it's the tall bozo I've been talking about, he wanted to hurt me. But I can't prove a thing. Besides, I can't understand why he went to all of that trouble."

They rode downtown to Judy's apartment. The avenue was nearly deserted. Now and then the rumbling of an elevated train carried across the block. The foghorn blew with dim, mechanical precision for the night had grown misty.

At her door Ronald held Judy's hands.

Then he stooped and kissed her quickly on the lips. "Thank you, Judy. You're grand."

She went inside but she stumbled, for her eyes were blurred by a screen of tears. Once Ronald had kissed madly, possessively, longingly.

Tonight he had kissed her kindly—for gratitude!

TELLS OF ADAM

Scientist Lesson Tomorrow to Discuss Fallen Man.

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "He that is of the earth is earthly, and speaketh of the earth: he that cometh from heaven is above all" (John 3:31).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat: . . . But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die" (Genesis 2:16, 17).

BRICKER'S REPLY TO THE 70-30 DEAL

Mr. Sawyer has descended to the lowest depths of campaign deception. He has charged his opponent with making a 70-30 patronage deal with the present Democratic Administration.

To which charge Mr. Bricker replies:

"The charges are only the frantic falsehoods of a desperate candidate, who is vainly trying to raise some fake issue that will take public attention away from Sawyer's proven connection with the radical CIO leaders."

"Instead of discussing issues and problems of government he confines himself almost entirely to a discussion of patronage and to a repetition of mean gossip started by his own paid agents. Either he is unable to discuss the real issues of the campaign or he is dodging them. He continues to repeat his false claim that I or someone else in the Republican Party has made a deal with the present Democratic Administration. I declared this claim to be a fake the first time it was uttered. Apparently he has no regard for the truth."

(Signed) John W. Bricker.

What more can Mr. Bricker do than renounce and repudiate such a deal.

The truth is that behind the scene Martin L. Davey and his corrupt political machine are doing everything possible for the election of Sawyer. Why? Because they fear an investigation of the Davey administration if Bricker is elected.

If Davey is really for Bricker he would immediately endorse Sawyer which would make certain the election of John Bricker.

THE COMMUNISTS WANT SAWYER: Do You?

It is significant that the Communist Party in Ohio withdrew its candidates and presents no state ticket at the coming election, in order to throw its full support to Sawyer, Bulkley and the Democratic Ticket.

Secretary Onda of Cuyahoga County Communist Party says:

"We must unite with the CIO and others of the masses to defeat Bricker and Taft. The policy of our party and the party of the working classes was to unite and defeat Davey in the primary. Let us now unite for the November Election."

John Williamson, State Secretary of Communist Party says:

"From now until election day, there is the most urgent need of an aggressive campaign against the reactionary Republican Candidates, Bricker and Taft, with the New Deal as the fighting issue of the campaign."

Here is an alliance that smells to high heaven. Its objective is to elect a Governor who is under obligations to the infested communistic Labor's Non-Partisan League and the Communist party.

Candidates and platforms that are in accord with Communists ideas, that receive the vigorous backing of the Communist party, are surely undeserving of the votes of patriotic Americans.

Mr. Sawyer is not proclaiming his communist backing from the housetops. But he is definitely not taking one course dictated by true Americanism, outright repudiation of the Reds and such paltry votes as they command.

New York's Democratic Senator Wagner says:

"I renounce the indorsement or support of the Communist party or of any persons subscribing to the principles of communism. Since I am unalterably opposed to what the Communists stand for, I cannot accept their support and I therefore repudiate it."

We have waited for thirty long days for such a statement from Mr. Sawyer which has been thirty days too long. Why doesn't he like Senator Wagner when faced by the out-and-out issue of Americanism versus Communism renounce and repudiate Communism and all its works, and reject any and all support the Reds could give him? Is he weak and unstable enough to accept communist support because of his desperate need for votes?

Sawyer endorsement by the Communist Party of Ohio ought to be enough to make every red blooded American go to the polls on Nov. 8 and vote for his opponent John W. Bricker.

Issued by the Republican Executive Committee,
R. M. Hardy, Chairman.

SAWYER vs. BRICKER

The following Editorial appeared in the Democratic Cincinnati Enquirer the home of Charles Sawyer as of Nov. 2, 1938.

THE GOVERNORSHIP

Editorial From Cincinnati Enquirer Nov. 2, 1938

Election of Charles Sawyer, if he be elected to the office of Governor of Ohio, will be widely and loudly proclaimed a New Deal victory. It will be acclaimed by Mr. Roosevelt and his satellites as an unmistakable mandate from the voters of Ohio to prosecute with renewed zeal and vigor his plans for a socialized nation controlled and motivated by himself.

There are at stake in the election to be held November 8, vastly more important and vital issues than the mere election of a Governor. Perpetuation of the American system under the Constitution is transcendently more important. Preservation of the rights and liberties of the people of the United States unhampered and unthrottled by regimentation and bureaucratic control is infinitely more important. Whether the candidate who shall be elected Governor is in or out of sympathy with the heretical and destructive policies that have marked the course of the present national administration is a matter of gravest concern and of consummate importance.

It is regrettable that Mr. Sawyer has not made known his attitude on the attempted rape of the Supreme Court of the United States; that he has not expressed approval or disapproval of a government reorganization plan that would confide dictatorial and irrevocable power to one man, the President of the United States. It is not understandable that he has expressed no opinion on the administrative policy of Mr. Roosevelt to expand the national debt to astronomical proportions, and that he has failed to indicate whether he believes in private initiative, individual enterprise, or in governmental ownership, control and operation.

It is not an answer to say that Mr. Sawyer is making a campaign on state issues for a state office. Affairs of the states are already inextricably entangled with the Federal Government, whose apparent purpose it is to destroy their sovereignty and to control and direct them as satrapies. It is a matter of common knowledge that Mr. Roosevelt has indicated to the people of New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and other states the men whom he desires the voters to select as Governor and, moreover, is applying adroit pressure to achieve obedience and compliance.

Until now the heavy artillery of the New Dealers has not been trained on Ohio. Probably it will not be employed. If it were, it might divert attention from present state issues and center them upon increasingly obnoxious national policy.

Because it adheres to the philosophy of Thomas Jefferson and not that of Karl Marx, because it is devoted to perpetuation of the soundest form of self-government the world has ever known, The Enquirer, historically and traditionally Democratic, can not endorse the candidacy of Mr. Sawyer. Although a man of high character in all his personal relations, and capable withal, The Enquirer believes that his election would be construed to be an endorsement by the liberty-loving people of Ohio of a regime that is shattering, and will ultimately destroy, unless checked, the very foundations of our free institutions. It therefore commends to the electorate John W. Bricker, whose stalwart Americanism far outweighs his partisan affiliation.—Editorial.

Ralph M. Hardy, Chairman.

Art Study Club Plans Guest Tea At Central M.E. Church Nov. 18

MEMBERS of the Art Study club have been particularly busy in pursuit of their study this week as they attended two meetings dealing with art. Yesterday Mrs. Frank Lane, 907 Park avenue west, president of the Art Study club was hostess to 37 members of the organization when plans were made for the annual guest tea.

The affair will be held Nov. 18 at the Central M. E. church at which time Mrs. Zimmerman, guest speaker, will talk on "Holidays in the United States and China."

Mrs. William Keefe spoke on "Chinese Education and Educators" and told of the history and the customs associated with education from the early centuries of that ancient oriental land. The current events were given from the Art Digest by Mrs. Theodore Frank.

The tea table was decorated with garden flowers and lighted white tapers. Miss Lillian Dickson and Mrs. William Kuhn poured.

On Thursday evening, Mrs. Lane also entertained the organization, and members of the Review of Reviews club at her home when Miss Isabel Barry, Cleveland lighting expert, spoke on "What Colors Do To You." She told how the proper use of color could make the small home attractive and livable. She used slides, colors and fabrics to illustrate her lecture.

Miss Barry also told members of the effect of color on individuals and their nervous systems, emphasizing the soothing factors of pastels, and the excitatory nature of brighter shades.

Historic Home Subject For Illustrated Talks In City

KENMORE, the Virginia home of George Washington's sister and one of the most interesting of national shrines, will be brought to Mansfield by way of the lecture platform and motion pictures next Wednesday and Thursday under the auspices of the board of directors of the Federation of Women.

Mrs. H. H. Smith of Fredericksburg, Va., secretary of the national Kenmore association, will be the speaker and will show colored pictures of the spacious colonial mansion which was built by Col. Fielding Lewis and his young wife, Betty, sister of George Washington. It is one of the two homes in existence where Washington spent much of his time, the other being Mt. Vernon on the Potomac.

Washington himself planned the ornate ceilings and over-mantels, and surveyed the land for the estate of 863 acres. Col. Lewis, one of the staunchest of patriots, mortgaged his beautiful home in 1775 to help finance the building of guns for the battle of Yorktown, and although his sacrifice played an important part in the colonies winning the war, he lost his home.

In 1929 Kenmore was purchased by the Fredericksburg Garden club. It was authentically repaired, furnished and decorated and now stands as one of the most beautiful and correctly restored national shrines in America. The gardens where Mary Washington and her daughter Betty, once walked, are being restored.

The educational committee of the Federation of Women is bringing Mrs. Smith and the Kenmore pictures to Mansfield. The visit will be of particular interest to Mansfielders who plan motor trips to Virginia. The lecture, open to the public for a small admission fee, is scheduled for 8 p. m. Wednesday at the Baptist church. It will be given at 9:30 a. m. Thursday at the Lincoln Heights school, Thursday noon at the Kiwanis club, and at 2:30 p. m. at Senior high school.

Rudolphs Celebrate Golden Anniversary Tomorrow

TOMORROW, a Mansfield couple, well known to many resident, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. The pair is Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Rudolph, 442 Louise avenue, who will be honored at a reception Sunday afternoon at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Clark W. Brook, 31 Euclid avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph have lived here for many years, coming to the city shortly after their marriage when Mr. Rudolph was made division superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

In addition to Mrs. Brook, the couple had six other children, five of whom are living. They are Mrs. F. F. Fishback, Carey E. Rudolph, Maxwell C. Rudolph and Donald S. Rudolph, all of this city, and Walter Rudolph, Cincinnati. There are 10 grandchildren, Richard R. Hartman; Eugene, Kenneth and Earle Rudolph; Jeanne, Betty, Billy, Margaret and Diane Brook, Mansfield, and Jimmy Rudolph, Cincinnati.

Mrs. Rudolph has been active for many years in the work of the Mayflower Congregational church and the Mothers' Home circle. Both Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph are baseball and football fans, and he has played in a number of orchestras in the city.

Tea will be served tomorrow between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m. at the Brook home with the two daughters-in-law, Mrs. Donald Rudolph and Mrs. Walter Rudolph, Cincinnati, presiding at the table. Assisting the hostess and the guest in honor in receiving the guests will be Mrs. Cora Evans, Vickory, sister of Mr. Rudolph, and Mrs. Albert Kreider, Newark, sister of Mrs. Rudolph.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph were married at Utica Nov. 6, 1888. Tonight the members of the family will gather at the Louise avenue residence for an informal get-together in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"What is it Junior says so often?" I asked rhetorically, and answered my own question forthwith.

"'There is so,' something we can do," I told her. "Not about this woman who is telephoning your uncle, it is true. We shall have to wait until he comes to give him her message. But if he doesn't come back with the boys—"

Mary Interrupts.

Mary interrupted me, and the lilt in her voice told me that she was relieved at my recovery from my nervous slump of a minute before.

"If he doesn't come back, the poor thing will be just out of luck, and won't I weep?"

"Not into more than six handkerchiefs, Mary," I said. "But I shall neither 'lean back and take another rest' nor shall I 'twiddle my fingers.' Instead, I shall put you through a course of sprouts in going over your lines until they return for your afternoon will be full."

"Why?" she asked, startled. Then with a queer, embarrassed look upon her face she added, "Oh! I forgot—Noel!"

Chill of Doubt.

Again that fleeting little chill of doubt touched me. Apparently she had been exceedingly happy at the prospect of seeing her young husband, even though, on account of Philip Veritzen, we had to shroud the visit as if it were a sordid intrigue. But something almost indefinable in her manner had made me wonder, as I did now, if down deep in her subconsciousness there was not a secret resentment at the interruption to her rehearsals which her visit with Noel would bring.

"Not only Noel," I said, carefully keeping my eyes averted from her embarrassed face, "but your brothers. They are not going back until the last afternoon train, and you won't see them again—probably not until Christmas, unless they come down to the opening."

"If there is an opening for me," she said despondently. Rising from my chair abruptly, I took her by the shoulders and shook her, smiling reproachfully at her the while.

Doesn't Peserve It.

"You deserve not to have one for your pessimism," I told her, and she put up her hands and pulled mine down from her shoulders, imprisoning them in a tight, convulsive grip.

"I wonder you put up with me," she said. "But, are you sure you feel strong enough to take me on now?"

"Of course, goose!" I rejoined, and in another minute we were plunged into her drill again. We kept at it until a knock upon the door heralded the return of Dicky and the boys.

As we welcomed them, I furtively searched their faces, finding Dicky's non-committal, Bill's relieved and Hank's a bit perplexed. His eyes held a wary expression as though he were watching for some embarrassing query.

Bill Tells Verdict.

"Well! what's the verdict?" I asked breezily, as though their visit to the specialist had had nothing unusual about it.

"Splendid!" Bill answered, bubbling over with relief after the anxious hours he had put in.

"There's nothing much the matter with Hank," he went on, "except that he's smoking too much, and has got to quit reading with a flashlight under the bedclothes after ten o'clock when the 'lights out' rule goes into effect at the school. And he can go back to school with me! Gee but I'm glad!"

Hank shot a quick, suspicious look at him.

"What made you think he wouldn't let me go back to school?" he demanded, and I shivered as I saw by his eyes that somewhere during the time he had been gone from the hotel he had found out why he had been sent to the specialist.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Nov. 6.

Sunday's horoscope holds fair promise of advancement, profit and satisfaction, with possible tokens of preferment from superiors or those in authority. At the same time there are auguries of loss, dissatisfaction or menace to the status of posessions, and there also are omens of a minor inharmony or disappointment in the social or emotional contacts.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of fair progress and profitable developments, with some increase of prestige and popularity, although there are also possibilities of a loss of some nature. Personal relations likewise have signs of minor inharmonies.

A child born on this day may be rather talented, efficient and ambitious, but it may incline to personal popularity and social associations with the influential, rather than hard work of a practical nature, to bolster its standing and success. It should be generous, indulgent and "a good mixer."

For Monday, Nov. 7.

Monday's astrological forecast is for rapid progress and adventure along probably exciting and disrupting lines. With care these could be turned to one's advantage as there are safe, solid and stabilizing forces at work in spite of singular circumstances, subtle and menacing elements which might prove dangerous unless shrewdly and decisively managed. Elders and superiors may be counted upon for wise counsel and advancement.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of conflicting conditions, with some promise of solid progress and advancement through the cooperation of employers, elders and others in high places. At the same time, there is a subtle menace, with undercurrents of trickery, intrigue, confusion or eccentricity, to be decisively handled.

A child born on this day may be sturdy, energetic, ambitious and adventurous, with probably some original ideas of progress and social development, although these may have some peculiar or radical slants.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

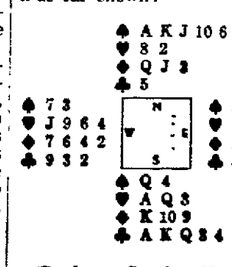
"The Authority on Authorities"

A SLAM INVITATION

BIDDING TWO NO TRUMP, when the last call by your partner was one of a suit, is now a force to game in the language of practically all fine players. Such being the case, what is the natural logical meaning of three no trump in the same spot? Doesn't it reasonably signify that the bidder is at least a trick or two stronger than necessary to call two no trump? And isn't it there fore an invitation to you to reach out for slam if your hand is any better than you had thus far shown?



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable).

The bidding on this deal began with South calling 1-Club. North responded with 1-Spade. South jumped to 3-No Trump and North bid 4-Spades.

East decided on a trump lead as doing the least harm, so led the 9. North won the trick and led one more round to clear the outstanding trumps. The clubs A, K and Q were taken, discarding two diamonds from the North hand. Next came a club ruff and a heart to the A. On the fifth club the heart loser was tossed, so that the declarer had to relinquish only one trick to the diamond A.

North was the one at fault for not arriving at the slam contract. South had opened the bidding and given a very powerful response on the second round. The four spade bid by North certainly gave no adequate picture of his holdings opposite so strong a partner.

Monday's Problem.

How should South play to make 6-Clubs after the lead of the diamond 6?

SPECIAL ISSUES TO PLAY MAJOR ELECTION ROLE

County Voters Get From 2 to 4 Ballots Besides Party And Judicial Tickets.

Richland county voters will have from two to four ballots on special issues to mark at Tuesday's election in addition to the large two-party ballot and the smaller non-partisan judicial ticket.

Only two of the special issues will be voted on in all of the 90 precincts in the city and county, and one of them will be state-wide.

The issues to be submitted to all the county's voters are for an amendment to the state constitution providing for the appointment of supreme court and appeals court judges and a one-half mill levy on county real estate to provide for the care of tuberculosis patients.

In addition to the two county-wide issues, Mansfield will vote on a proposal to esablish a board of park commissioners to handle the administration of the city's public parks.

Backed by civic organizations and park groups the park commission plan would provide for the appointment of a non-partisan commission to regulate the city's parks.

Ballot on Beer, Liquor.

Voters in Springfield and Cass townships and the village of Shiloh will ballot on whether the sale of beer and intoxicating liquor shall continue in those districts.

The three county communities are among 150 in Ohio which will vote on the liquor question Tuesday. If the majority vote is "No" in the townships and Shiloh, no beer or liquor can be sold there.

The beer and liquor proposals are on separate ballots.

Two proposed bond issues will be submitted next week for the second time. One would provide $75,900 for a new school building in the Union Rural school district north of Mansfield, and the other would produce $14,000 for a new township hall in Butler township.

Bellville and Troy township will vote on operating levies, with the Bellville voters asked to renew a three-mill levy on real estate for three years. Troy township electors will ballot on a six-tenth of a mill levy for two years. Both levies would provide general operating funds for the local governments.

Back Judicial Amendment.

The proposal to appoint judges of the higher courts instead of electing them as under the present system has received the endorsement of the American Bar association, Ohio State Bar association and a number of civic and trade organizations in Ohio.

Its backers contend it will result in more efficient judges since voters often are not informed as to the qualifications of the judicial candidates.

Opponents of the plan argue it will take away the rights of the people to choose their judges, and may result in courts being "controlled by large, influential law firms and corporations."

The proposal calls for the appointment of judges of the supreme and appeals courts by the governor from a list of three or five candidates nominated by a judicial council headed by the chief justice of the supreme court. The appointments must be confirmed by the state senate.

Levy For T. B. Care.

Proposed by the county commissioners and the health department, the half-mill levy for tuberculosis patients would produce about $45,000 a year for five years.

Commissioners have pointed out that for the past six years they have not had sufficient funds to care for an increasing number of tuberculosis victims who must be sent to hospitals outside the county for treatment.

If the Mansfield parks plan is approved next Tuesday, the mayor would appoint a three-member board on the recommendation of a city-wide parks committee composed of representatives of the garden clubs, Chamber of Commerce, parks organizations and civic clubs.

The parks commission members would serve without pay, and the plan will not add to the cost of city government, its sponsors point out.

The board would in no way interfere with the functioning of the city's several park organizations, it was pointed out.

The Union school district bond issue, which lost by a small margin at a special election Sept. 20, will produce funds to supplement an anticipated $62,000 PWA grant for a school building program. The issues will be submitted to voters in Weller and Franklin townships which comprise the Union district.

TIME'S COMING WHEN HITLER WILL HEAR 'NO'

That's Knickerbocker's Claim Who Cites at Least Two Certainties of War.

(Editor's Note—H. R. Knickerbocker declares that regardless of the acquiescence by European governments in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's demands, the time is bound to come when the people themselves will say "no" to Hitler. This is the concluding article of a series of six.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
(INS Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1938, INS)

NEW YORK—When Hitler demands the return of the reparations paid by Germany, and gets them, then when he demands the allies should pay reparations on their own account for the immense damage wrought upon Germany by the last war, then perhaps, the world will understand what the Nazi program means to achieve.

Hitherto Europe has acted upon the advice of Low's famous Colonel Blimp, who, at the moment when Britain was being more than usually pushed about by Germany, exclaimed in his steam bath: "By gad sir, the only way to avoid being bullied by this fellow Hitler is to find out what he wants . . . and do it!"

Of course, there would never be a war if Europe really were prepared to do all that Hitler wants. But an analysis of his wants makes it plain that no matter how complaisant, acquiescent and craven the governments of Europe might be, there is bound to come a time when the peoples themselves will say no.

2 Certainties of War.

It is not necessary to go beyond the first point in the original 25-point Nazi program to meet half a dozen possibilities, several probabilities, and at least two certainties of war. This is the famous point which Hitler has already gone so far towards realizing. It reads "we demand the union of all Germans to form a great Germany on the basis of the right of self-determination."

Gottfried Feder's official commentary on this point reads: "All of German blood, whether living under French, Danish, Polish, Czech, or Italian sovereignty, shall be united in a German reich. We demand neither less nor more than what was demanded for our enemies, the right of Germans to decide to belong to their motherland, the German state. We claim all Germans in Sudeten Germany, Alsace-Lorraine, Poland, the league colony of Austria, and the states which succeeded to the old Austria."

Having brilliantly fulfilled the Austrian and Czechoslovak part of this demand, and having added ten million Germans to his reich within seven months, Hitler still has an irredenta of another ten million to bring into the reich fold.

Here's Where They Are.

Counting only the states actually neighboring the reich, there are according to Nazi figures 60,000 Germans in Denmark, 1,200,000 in Poland, 190,000 in Memel and Lithuania, 420,000 in Danzig, 600,000 in Hungary, 700,000 in Yugoslavia, 3,000,000 in Switzerland, 1,700,000 in France (Alsace-Lorraine), 290,000 in Luxembourg, 150,000 in Belgium (Eupen-Malmedy), and 115,000 in Holland.

By mere threats, without fighting, he can probably get what he wants from Danzig, Luxembourg, Lithuania, Hungary, Yugoslavia; possibly Denmark, Poland and Belgium. Holland would almost certainly fight, and Switzerland would certainly fight. It is shocking to record, but a fact, that at this moment the defeatist spirit in France is so strong that there it is not absurd to speak of the possibility of Hitler getting Alsace, if not Alsace-Lorraine, without fighting.

Nazi propaganda has already started in Alsace, and the population is being prepared for the coming struggle.

Who Is 'Next'?

All the way around the borders of Germany fright has seized upon the peoples who expect to be "next." "I suppose we are in for it next," was the comment made to me by an Alsatian when our plane stopped in Strasbourg to refuel on its way from Prague to Paris. We had just flown over the Siegfried line and at a height of 1,000 feet, we could see swarms of workmen pouring concrete behind high wooden walls to screen their activity from the French.

I went on to Switzerland, and in Zurich the taxi driver, seeing a Prague hotel label, asked, "do you think he will come here next?" The hotel manager asked the same, and during the day no fewer than five Swiss, ranging from shopkeepers to a university professor, repeated the question with varying degrees of anxiety, but always with the same comment: "If he does, we will fight. We are not Czechoslovakia."

Lord Hugh Cecil, provost of Eton college, put it, "if we are thought to be more afraid of war than Germany is future negotiations will usually end more agreeably to Germany than to us. There seems to stretch out before us an unending vista of meals on humble pie whenever any dictator chooses to ask us to dinner." Winston Churchill, thundering his warning of what Munich meant, somberly declared: "And do not suppose that this is the end. This is only the beginning of the reckoning. This is only the first sip, the first foretaste of a bitter cup which will be proffered to us year by year unless by a supreme recovery of moral health and martial vigor, we arise again and take our stand for freedom as in the olden time."

Before the armed power of Nazi Germany all Europe capitulated. Before this power Europe still trembles. America is distant, but travel time from Berlin to New York is less today than it was from New York to Boston in the administration of President Monroe. The humiliation which the Nazi power has imposed upon Europe was only possible because Europe falsely felt itself secure. Nothing but the possession of overpowering military, air and naval force can save America from Europe's fate.

"If I Were King."

The most romantic rogue in all history, Francois Villon, poet, vagabond and rascal, whose romantic exploits have inspired poets, playwrights and novelists for the last century, and who has been immortalized on the stage by such players as E. H. Sothern and Dennis King, is the hero of the screen version of Justin Huntly McCarthy's drama, "If I Were King," which opens at the Madison Sunday. Ronald Colman plays the vagabond who was king of France for a day, and little Frances Dee plays Katherine De Vaucelles, the king's ward, who fell in love with him. Basil Rathbone has the role of Louis XI.

"Brother Rat."

Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va., is the background for "Brother Rat," the stage hit of the past season which has been filmed with Wayne Morris and Priscilla Lane. Brother Rat is the title for cadets the four years they are in training at this distinguished school. Three of the "Brother Rats" stick together, even when one of them weds secretly and later learns that he is to be a father. They stick to the prospective father even though they break practically all of the rules in doing it. The picture opens with a midnight matinee at the Ohio tonight.

"Little Miss Broadway."

At her dancingest best is Shirley Temple in "Little Miss Broadway" one of the Ritz attractions for the first three days of the week. She has capable support in George Murphy, one of the best of the screen dancers, Jimmy Durante, Phyllis Brooks and Edna Mae Oliver—not to mention El Brendel. It's the story of a "Broadway" child" in a theatrical hotel, and of a very mean old lady who doesn't like the singing and band music in the hotel. The second feature is "Tropic Holiday" with Dorothy Lamour, Ray Milland, Bob Burns, and Martha Raye.

Valentino Revival.

The first of the silent era's great box office hits to come to Mansfield is "Son of The Sheik," one of the early Rudolph Valentino films. It was a companian or sequal to "The Sheik," one of the biggest box office hits in the history of pictures. Although the Valentino pictures are a bit "hamy" now they still bring back the greatest personality the film industry has ever known. Vilma Banky, one of the loveliest of silent screen stars, was Valentino's leading lady. A strictly modern comedy, the Ritz Brothers, Don Ameche and Alice Faye in "You Can't Have Everything" brings the Park theater bill up to date.

"Artists and Models."

Strictly a man's picture is "Lives Of A Bengal Lancer" which comes to the Majestic as a re-issue film Sunday and Monday. Although Kathleen Burke plays a small but important part, it is a man's cast. There are Gary Cooper, Franchot Tone, Richard Cromwell, Sir Guy Standing, C. Aubrey Smith, Mischa Auer and Akim Tamiroff. The picture was made from the famous story of the Bengal Lancers in India and glorifies the dominion of Great Britain in the East. Jack Benny, Gail Patrick and Richard Arlin in "Artists and Models" is the second feature.

Madison Trims Red Birds, 26-6; Shelby, Galion Also Win

Lights Go Out, But Game Goes On

Capital university came back strong last night to overtake a determined Findlay college grid contingent and win by one extra point, 14 to 13.

Capital trailed 13-0 at the end of the initial period, then launched an aerial attack that netted a touchdown in the second and another in the third. Both attempts for points after scoring were successful.

A downpour resulted in the failure of floodlights on one side of the field late in the third period, but school officials decided to finish the game anyway. Neither team scored in the last period.

Bantams Perform At Home

Adams Eleven to Engage South Akron Merchants at Fair Lot Sunday.

STRENGTHENED by the addition of several new players, Clyde Adams' bantamweight football team will engage the South Akron Merchants at the Fairground at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

The new players who will see service with the bantamweight club Sunday are Hunt, Hattman and Hallabrin.

Coach Harry Dandakis' men will attempt to register their first victory in three games Sunday. They lost to the Akron DeLuce Bismarks in their opener and bowed to the Summit County Children's Home, 13 to 6, last Sunday.

The club the Mansfield eleven faces Sunday is undefeated in four games. Only one touchdown has been registered against the invaders. The Akron Pirates marred the Merchants' record last Sunday, but lost 7 to 6.

The lineup for Sunday's game is not definite, but Dandakis said that only a few changes would be made.

"Field and Water"

By YUNCKER BROS.

Game management officials of the conservation department report plenty of rabbits and pheasants in the state this year. With the creation of many refuges and game areas, the officials believe that both the birds and animals will come through the hunting season this month in good shape and will leave plenty of breeding stock for next year.

* * *

Did you know that the Yuncker Bros. recently liberated 65 pheasants in the county.

* * *

Those in the market for a coon dog might contact James Houston, R. D. 1, Shiloh, who has a six-year-old black and tan female on the block for $25. . . . and don't forget the field trials on schedule at the Cliff Faulk farm, west of Paradise, Sunday. It's an Ashland county Beagle Club promotion. Trials start at 8 a. m.

* * *

Check your hunting equipment. Yuncker Bros. store can supply your every need, and at prices lower than you probably suspect.

* * *

A nimrod from the west passing through the state leaves word that pheasants are plentiful on this side of Lima. The flocks were so thick in some spots that they looked like chicken yards, he reported. Note: Pheasant season opens Tuesday, Nov. 15.

* * *

Listen, hunters, always be careful of cigarets and matches. They are menaces to wild life . . . Licenses and coat tags lost by hunters offer conservation offcials a new problem. Being debated these days is whether the state law should be amended to permit replacement of lost tags without cost. Not likely, however.

Free registration of guns . . . at Yuncker Bros. sports store. Take advantage of this free service as a protection . . . and don't forget, you can't do better on a trade-in for your old gun than at Yuncker's store. It'll pay you to investigate.

* * *

Complaints that hunters are shooting pheasants out of season have been heard. Larger fines for this infraction might eliminate the menace . . . Add the Bowling Green territory as "tops" for pheasant hunting. Plenty of bunnies in the district, too . . . In most species of birds the males wear the bright feathers and the females the humdrum garb. Or did you know that?

Record Crowd At Tilt

Harmon, Miller Score For Rams as They Open Title Defense With Triumph.

By CHARLES MARTIN

APPROXIMATELY 2,000 football enthusiasts, the largest crowd ever to witness a contest at Madison high school, were on hand to watch the high-scoring Rams successfully open their bid for their fourth straight Mid-State league championship under the bulbs at Madison field last night.

Madison, playing its initial league tussle, toppled a fighting Loudonville high combine, 26 to 6, in a bitterly-fought battle before its homecoming assemblage.

Finds Birds Tough.

The Rams, their eyes set on the state scoring title, gained the lead in the opening minutes of the melee, but encountered trouble in halting the dangerous Red Birds' attack throughout the game. Madison's 26 points gave it a total of 288 to retain its lead in the scoring race.

Although Loudonville was unable to bounce into Madison pay dirt with its running game, it stormed up and down the field for three periods to give the Rams one of their biggest scares of the year.

The Red Birds cut Madison's lead to a 13 to 6 count in the early minutes of the final period on a touchdown pass, but the Rams rose to the occasion to strike twice in that stanza to put the tilt in storage.

The breaks favored Coach Al Fendrick's Rams last night and they readily took advantage of them.

Madison opening touchdown came in the early minutes of the first chapter when it secured the ball on downs on the invaders' 29-yard stripe after Loudonville failed to punt on fourth down. On the third play, Gene Harmon, who with Joe Miller accounted for all the points, went over from the 16 on a sweep. Harmon added the extra point on a plunge.

Shortly after the Madison forward wall smashed through to partially block Robert Siegfried's punt and Bill Wilkins recovered the ball on the Loudonville 20 to set the stage for touchdown No. 2. Harmon and Bill Wilkins carried the ball to the two, and Harmon went over left end for the score to raise his total for the season to 128 points.

But for the balance of the period and in the second and third, Loudonville held the upper hand. First it marched to the Madison five, but lost the ball on downs. And two other times the Red Birds chalked up four first downs in a row against the Rams, only to relinquishing the ball on downs.

After Loudonville marched to the Madison 15 in the fourth quarter the Rams sturdy line drove it back to the 20, but on last down Siegfried rifled a pass that Philip Krause juggled, but clung to, as he fell in the end zone. Siegfried's plunge for the point was stopped cold.

That touchdown seemd to bring the Rams to life, for they took the next kick off on their 40 and after four first downs placed the ball on the seven, Miller dug through center for the third score.

Another 'break' set the stage for Madison's last score. Bob Wilkins, whose play at center for the Rams was a feature of the game, fell on the next kick off on the Loudonville 17. Miller caught the Red Birds napping and slashed through center on the first play for the score. Miller's placement for the point was good.

Take to the Air.

Coach John Kerekes' outfit took to the air for the remainder of the period, but the fast-charging Madison forwards had Siegfried in 'hot water' as he tried to locate a receiver.

Loudonville outrushed the Rams, 256 yards to 184, and held the edge in first downs, 12 to 10. The Red Birds played a mess of fine football but found it practically impossible to penetrate the Madison line when it moved near the goal.

Regains Second Place In Touchdown Parade.

Gene Harmon, Madison high's brilliant backfield star, had regained second place today in the Ohio high school individual scoring race. The slippery-hipped youngster scored 13 points last night against Loudonville to boost his total to 128 points to pass Hillis Hume, Alliance star, who was held scoreless at his club defeated Barberton, 9 to 0. Hume has 126 points. Harmon trails Carl Grate, Greenfield McClain fullback, who finished his season last week, by 19 points.

Whippets Hang Up 8th Win

Querymen Score All Points In First Three Minutes In 13 to 0 Victory.

By JOHN GRAY

CRESTLINE — Deprived of the services of the sensational Harold Bliss in more than half of the game, Shelby's undefeated Whippets found Coach Merle Hutson's courageous Onodagos of Crestline high more than willing to mix it before a record crowd here last night, and the highly-touted visitors only eked out a two-touchdown 13 to 0 victory.

Bliss was ejected from the game in the second period for slugging, and Shelby's attack bogged down with the hard-running halfback on the sideline. The Whippets never threatened seriously after the intermission.

Shelby Given Scare.

Both of Shelby's touchdowns came in the first three minutes of play, and they proved to be enough to win, although Coach Bill Query's men were given a scare in the final period.

The figures of the game give Shelby a good-sized edge, but Crestline put up a scrappy battle and came close to turning in a victory with passes in the fourth quarter.

Shelby registered 11 first downs to five as it hung up its eight straight triumph, and accumulated 285 yards from running and throwing to Crestline's 132.

Bliss scored both of the Whippets' touchdowns before he left the game at the request of the officials. The first score was registered in the first minute when Bob Stevens recovered Grim's fumble on the 21.

On the first play, Bliss swept around his own right end to tally. Jim Terman added the extra point from placement.

The other score came within three minutes after the kickoff. With Bliss and Bob Baker exchanging turns at lugging the leather, Shelby moved down to the 12 on a 45-yard drive, and Bliss went over on another wide run. Terman's attempted placement was blocked.

Loses Ball on Downs.

Shelby threatened twice in the second period, but lost the ball on downs to the fighting Hutsonmen on the 12 and 13. The Whippets never got deep in Crestline territory again.

Phil Ganni's passes put the invaders on the defensive during virtually all of the fourth quarter. Crestline knocked at the touchdown door four times, but Shelby held for downs each time. Once the Whippets took the pigskin on the 10, then on the 24, later on the 34 and the last time on the 27.

With Grim going through center for 13 yards, Crestline had possession of the ball on the two-yard line once in the fourth period. But a mix-up in signals halted the scoring chance. There was no receiver for the center's pass and the ball was retrieved by Ganni on the 27.

MASSILLON SMOTHERS CANTON LEHMAN, 52-0

MASSILLON — The undefeated Tigers of Massillon high continued their march towards their fourth consecutive Ohio high school grid championship here last night by smothering Canton Lehman, 52-0, in their second Stark county contest under the lights at Massillon stadium. Canton McKinley, also unbeaten this year, walloped Lehman, 48 to 6, recently.

CHICAGO—Tony Musto, 199, Chicago, outpointed Max Marek, 190, Chicago, (10).

WOOSTER—Coach L. C. Boles of Wooster and his three assistants represent exactly 71 seasons of football coaching at Wooster. Few colleges in the country can point to a longer period in which the same four men have directed their football destinies.

Coach Boles came to Wooster in 1915. This is his 23rd season at Wooster. He was away on leave of absence in 1926.

Next to Coach Boles, comes Coach "Mose" Hole who has been at Wooster since the World war. He came to Wooster in 1919 and he has been Freshman football coach and Wooster's chief football scout ever since. He has been varsity basketball coach since 1926.

Carl B. Munson, line coach, came to Wooster in 1922. He is also coach of track, cross country and swimming.

John Swigart, backfield coach, joined Wooster's coaching staff in 1926. He is director of intramurals and for the past two seasons has been varsity baseball coach.

Both Coaches Boles and Swigart have had scholastic coaching experience. Coach Boles was at London high one year, Fostoria high six years and Cleveland East high two years.

Swigart coached at Napoleon high one season, at Wooster high another, before joining the college coaching staff.

Defendant Used Wrong Golf Club, Attorney Contends

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—A supreme court jury that knows "little if anything" about golf will determine today the penalty—if any—for a golfing miscue which bounced off a player's head instead of hitting the green.

It can decide that the "slice" was grievous to Ernest M. Corey, whom it hit, to the extent of $10,000, or it can side with "expert" defense witnesses who contended that when George Whatmough dubbed the shot he was committing a sin no greater than the best professional players commit occasionally.

In his charge to the jury, Justice Charles Dodd said the main thing to be decided was whether Whatmough used ordinary intelligence and caution. The wayward shot was executed by Whatmough while playing in a fivesome with Corey three years ago. Corey asked $10,000 damages.

Corey's attorney, Arthur K. Wing, made much of the fact that Whatmough used a brassie for the shot which, he said, should have been executed with a spoon—a club with greater loft.

Orange Rallies To Win

Score Three Times In 4th Period to Break Tie; Wins 30 to 12.

MARION—Galion high school's powerful Orangemen jumped into a tie with Shelby for first place in the N. C. O. conference here last night by thumping the Marion Presidents, 30 to 12.

The victory was the seventh straight for the Orangemen, who were forced to stage a rally in the fourth period to turn back the challenge of the Presidents.

Galion Holds Edge.

Galion gained 281 yards from rushing and passing to only 76 to the hosts, but Marion made up some of its physical weaknesses by playing a scrappy brand of ball. The first downs favored the visitors 19 to 4.

Coach Johnny Burnison's men even trailed at one stage of the game, but they came back to protect their undefeated record.

Galion scored in the first minute of the second period when Schreck plunged across from the one after George Corrado passed to Secrist. After recovering Eugene Jack's fumble on the six, Marion immediately marched across to knot the count, 6-all. A Roberts to Zeisler pass did the trick.

Roberts intercepted a pass thrown by Corrado in the third frame and raced 98 yards through the Galion team to give Marion a 12 to 6 advantage. This lead was short-lived, however, Galion coming right back to tie it up on Durtschi's touchdown from the 10 on a sweep. A 33-yard run by Durtschi set the stage for the touchdown.

Crosses From Two.

What proved to be the game-winning touchodwn was scored by Durtschi on a plunge from the two early in the fourth period. Corrado bucked across for the second in the last period from the four after Lawrence Maiden had returned an interception to the 17.

The last score came when Corrado picked up Jack's fumble and raced 20 yards across the goal line.

Coals Face Undefeated Columbus Eleven Sunday

Coach Miller Reports Kallmerten and Baer Club In Good Shape for Game at League Park.

WITH his squad in better shape than any time this season, Coach Gip Miller today looked forward to an improved performance from his Kallmerten and Baer Coals, who are hosts to the Avondale Theaters of Columbus at League park at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Whether the Coals will be able to win is another matter, but Miller is certain that they will not be pushovers for the Capital city team.

Standout In Columbus.

The Avondale Theater club is one of the toughest teams the Coals have faced this season. The Columbus team is undefeated, and is rated as a standout in the current heavyweight championship race in that city.

The Theaters' biggest achievement of the season was the victory it scored over the Big Three Wine House, which, according to the Columbus Dispatch, without a doubt is as good a colored eleven that ever trod a Columbus gridiron.

The defeat administered by the Avondale team is the only mar on the Columbus colored team's record.

Outstanding members of the club coached by Boots Myers, late of the University of Wilmington, are Paul Hill, 170-pound tackle and captain, and Sherman Long, formerly of South high, who holds down an end.

The Avondales' backfield consists of Gray, Robertson, Eckstein and McCarroll, all former high school stars.

No Changes Planned.

Although dissatisfied with the play of the team, Coach Miller does not plan any lineup changes Sunday. However, if the starting lineup fails to show the improvement desired, Miller indicated that several regulars would probably find themselves on the bench before the game gets very old.

Lack of material has made it difficult for Miller to experiment with the lineup as much as he desires.

Kingsport Star Runs Scoring Total to 213.

KINGSPORT, Tenn. — (INS — Bobby Clfers, sensational halfback on the Kingsport high school football team, today had established a new high in season scoring after piling up 33 points in Kingsport's 40-0 victory over Briston here last night.

Clfers' total for the season is 213 points, two better than the 211 total amassed by Bill De Correvont of Chicago last year. He scored five touchdowns, and three extra points last night. Kingsport has two more games on its schedule.

Dukes Trip New London

Stage Last-Period Rally to Defeat Wildcats.

WELLINGTON — Wellington high's Dukes unleashed a spectacular last-period rally here last night to overcome a 14-6 lead and hand New London high an 18 to 14 setback in a Northern Ohio league tussle.

The Wildcats scored twice in the opening half, and appeared to be on their way to victory when the Dukes suddenly broke loose with a startling attack after tallying a touchdown in the third. Easton intercepted a New London forward late in the contest to set the stage for the winning marker. A few minutes later he plunged over from the one.

Bobby Thomas, New London backfield star, contributed both his team's touchdowns. Thomas ploughed over from the one for the first marker, and in the second quarter, added another from the five.

HURON VOTERS FACE 2 COUNTY, DISTRICT RACES

Willard to Decide on $20,000 Bond Issue to Finance New Swimming Pool, Park.

(Editor's Note: This is last in a series of stories summarizing the political campaigns in counties in the immediate Richland county area.)

NORWALK—Two district contests and two county contests will confront voters of Huron county along with the state ticket when they go to the polls next Tuesday.

On the county ticket, Ed A. Evans, Democrat completing his first term as auditor, faces a competitor in Kent H. Woodward, former Republican Huron county commissioner.

Another county race is that for county commissioner, with Frank L. Bohn, Democrat, and Eben Lawrence, Republican, competing.

Pick Two Senators.

In one of the district contests, Dudley A. White, Republican, incumbent, is opposed by William L. Fiesinger, Democrat, for the post of congressman for the 13th district.

The other district contest is for two state senatorial posts from the 13th district. Asking for the two posts are William H. Herner and Paul Miller, Democrats, and Fred L. Adams and A. D. Baumhart, jr., Republicans.

In the city of Willard, voters are asked to approve a $20,000 bond issue with which to finance the construction of swimming pool and a park.

Willard in past elections has looked kindly on bond issues. At a recent special election a bond issue for $60,000 was passed for a sewage improvement program. It passed by a majority exceeding 90 per cent.

Committees from organizations sponsoring the proposed swimming pool and park project have staged an active campaign for the proposal. They have announced that a federal grant of $40,000 has been promised if the bond issue is approved.

DELUGE HALTS FOREST FIRES

Heavy Rains, Driven by Gale, Keep Blazes Isolated in Indiana, Illinois.

(By United Press)

Heavy rains, driven by a strong gale, swept across Indiana and Illinois today and halted forest and brush fires which had destroyed thousands of acres of timberland. The rains were moving eastward across the midwest and south and were expected to bring relief today to volunteers and CCC workers fighting fires in 10 other states.

The fire belt extended from Michigan to northern Alabama and from the Mississippi to the Atlantic.

An estimated 6,000 CCC enrollees, WPA workers, farmers and volunteers still were battling fires raging through Kentucky, Tennessee, Michigan, West Virginia and Virginia.

Many farm families had fled their homes in isolated sections of Indiana before the rain last night. Flames destroyed three homes and farm equipment near Bluffton, Ind. The entire community was threatened but firemen and citizens gained control of the flames before they could spread.

The rain saved the lives of four CCC enrollees who had been trapped by a fire five miles west of Hindustan, Ind. They had left coworkers and crossed a fire lane in an attempt to hald flames spreading in another direction. A wall of flame closed about them, cutting off escape. Fifteen minutes later the rain began to fall. It drenched the area, extinguishing the flames.

Canton dispatches said Japanese merchant ships had begun arriving at Canton, although foreign shipping still was barred from the Pearl river.

ASHLAND BUYS SITE FOR NEW SEWAGE PLANT

Pays $3,037 for Ground Plot; Council Passes Ordinance Accepting Deed.

ASHLAND—In special session Friday morning, city council authorized the purchase of a site for the new sewage disposal plant from George Kunkel. Council directed purchase of 25.37 acres and a parcel of .538 acres at a cost of $3,037.

The purchase in addition to the site for the disposal plant, includes a right of way across a part of the Kunkel farm to provide a roadway to the disposal plant. An ordinance to accept the deed for the property from Kunkel was passed on the first reading.

A Farmer's Diary

Gone to Seed.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE summer has gone to seed. I walked into the woods this afternoon. My feet scuffed through the piles of dead, dry leaves. No birds were seen or heard. Only beneath the oak leaves on the ground, I found occasionally, an acorn. Underneath the nut trees, findings were not so good. The nut crop is short this year.

Along the winding trail made by the logging trucks, hung clusters of wilted poke berries. Their reddish purple juice oozed forth at a touch.

Tall thistles bore their emptying bunches of down higher than my head. Clusters of milk weed pods, wide open from the frost, sent myriad glossy silken parachutes adrift on the wind, each with its neat brown package.

My trousers, to my knees, were stiff with beggar lice, Spanish needles, cockle burs and other hitch-hiking passengers. I sat down on a log to scrape them off.

The fox tail grass was higher than my waist, just here. It tickled my face, and made a mat of soft, hairy fibers under foot. The wind was strong from the south, with hint of rain. It roared through the bare treetops and sent clinging leaves of lower shrubs and hedges scattering through the forest.

The fragrance of fallen leaves in drifted piles beside every log, and the crash and roar of branches overhead, combined to bring a sadness, an essence of autumn. Winter will come, with rain and sleet and cold. There will be months when all green things will die.

I looked down at the acorn in my hand. Seeds. Tiny brown packages, with power to cling and soar and live and grow. Seeds—with wings! I followed a sailing bit of milk weed out of sight, and hoped the rain would help the tender wheat.

ONDOV MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Taken to Hospital Year Ago, He's Convinced There's 'Much to Live For.'

trary child," he chuckled, "the calf immediately began to twinge with a faint pain—a sign of life."

Michael, or "Mike" as hundreds of Mansfielders have come to know him, has been scooting around over the hospital in a wheel chair, and in a few weeks he hopes to be able to get around on crutches.

"And as soon as I can adjust myself to crutches," he says with shining eyes, "I'm going back to divinity school. The dean said we would work it out some way. And I'll start in where I left off a year ago, and even though I can't walk for a few years yet, I can carry on and be ordained and perhaps serve as a chaplain in some hospital or institution.

"I know," he said simply. "that there is some reason for my life having been spared. I know that there is work for me to do—and the way will be provided."

On his bedside table, beside his radio and books, there is a small picture of Christ in the Garden of Gethsemene. Mike looks at it frequently and without self-consciousness.

He can talk calmly and unemotionally about himself—but not about the generosity and the sympathy of the hundreds of persons who have made his partial recovery possible. A fund of more than $2,500 was raised through newspaper and churches for his operation on March 16 and his long stay at the hospital. And always foremost in his gratitude is General hospital itself and the doctors whose generosity has enabled him to remain there.

Ondov suffered a broken back and crushed spinal cord in an auto accident Nov. 5, 1937, when he with a group of Wittenberg students were on their way home in Cleveland for the week-end. The 25-year-old student had left the car at Mansfield, alarmed at the excessive rate of speed at which the car had been operated between Springfield and Mansfield, but upon being assured that the speed would be reduced, he again started for Cleveland with the group. The driver lost control of the car on a curve near Hayesville. Ondov was the only one of the six seriously injured.

The Ondov fund, which is in charge of Rev. Herman Gilbert of Mansfield, is almost gone now. An additional hundred dollars was added to it this week by Miss Susie Janis, Park avenue west road, who with a group of women, sold home made candy to business associates and friends, so that Ondov might have further care.

In Memoriam

In memory of our precious Mother, Mrs. Addie Beaumont, who passed away one year ago today.

Just beyond the river Jordan,
Just across its chilling tide:
There's a land of life eternal
Thro its vales sweet waters glide.
By the crystal river flowing
Grows the tree of life so fair,
Mother is waiting for our coming,
In the Upper Garden there.
We shall meet her some bright morning,
Resting by the waters fair,
She is waiting for our coming,
In the Upper Garden there.

G. O. P. BATTLES TO RECAPTURE ILLINOIS VOTE

Slam-Bang Contest in State for Senate; Republicans Hope for Other Gains.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Illinois Republicans, paced by a young, slambang campaigner, are winding up a spirited fight to recapture—in part at least—the state of Abraham Lincoln and "Uncle Joe" Cannon.

Richard J. Lyons, 42-year-old Republican candidate for senator, is a platform-pacing, pour-it-on speaker who jerks off his collar when he gets warmed up. Stumping all parts of the state, Lyons has traveled more than 40,000 miles in a huge white trailer which he calls "the galloping billboard."

Representative Scott W. Lucas, 46, who has served two terms in congress, is the Democratic choice to succeed Senator Dieterich, who did not seek re-election. Backed by Governor Henry Horner, Lucas won the senatorial nomination despite the opposition of the Kelly-Nash Democratic faction, which is dominant in Chicago.

Farm Prices an Item.

Candidate Lyons has served several terms in the state legislature. One of the chief targets of his attack is the New Deal's farm program for the big hope of Republicans here—as in other middle west states—is to make political capital out of low crop prices. They are referring to Illinois as "the cradle of farm revolt against the Roosevelt administration's bureaucratic AAA."

Lucas voiced opposition to President Roosevelt's court reorganization plan but he is campaigning as a New Deal supporter. The state gave President Roosevelt a margin of 750,000; Lewis 597,000 and Governor Horner, 585,000 in 1936.

But this year the Republicans argue that farmer support will give their man more than enough advantage in downstate counties to offset the normally heavy Democratic vote in Chicago.

Open Air Appeal.

Lyons has been making a spectacular bid for city votes, too. He is the first major office candidate in years to hold open-air, street-corner meetings in Chicago. Democrats, however, express confidence that Lucas will get a huge majority in Chicago and hold his own outside.

G. O. P. leaders are hopeful of returning Republicans to several downstate house seats. In this connection they count heavily on the fact that 10 of the sitting Democrats in the house won by small margains in 1936, a good Democratic year.

ers would take the same "militant action" that had changed Cincinnati's government years ago.

"Thirty years ago the cynics said that no city government would ever be free from graft and corruption, that politics is essentially venal and that municipal reform was an idle dream. You and I have lived to see that cynicism disproved, and to realize that it was a citizenry clamoring for good government that brought about that change here," Sawyer said.

"I know that the same kind of militant action will be taken on Nov. 8 by the voters of Ohio."

Pledges Renewed.

He again declared in favor of a central state accounting system, removal of politics from civil service, reorganization of the highway department, liquidation of the school foundation deficit, a long range relief program and revision of the conservation program.

At Akron last night Bricker told a meeting of Republicans that investigators for the senate campaign expenditures committee had found the WPA situation in Ohio "so bad that they won't touch it until after election," He said that William Brown, Akron WPA superintendent was discharged for activities in behalf of the Republican party and described it as "evidence of how ruthlessly the federal government is willing to use work relief for political advantage."

Taft told Republican meetings last night in the Akron area: "The thing we have to decide next Tuesday is whether we are going forward with a country completely regulated by government, or back to the constitutional form where public officials are servants instead of masters."

Taft said that there was no evidence that the "poor man" had benefited under the New Deal. "The best way to help the poor man," he said, " is to stimulate private industry to a condition of prosperity in which every man that wants a job can get it. Prosperity is not brought back by taxation and government spending."

Bulkley told Cincinnatians last night that the "old deal" believed in "ruthless competition in the labor market and a let-alone policy in goverment which for years "permitted the exploitation of millions of people with low pay, long hours and social irresponsibility of the employer."

He called it "effrontery" on the part of Taft to say that conditions for the working men were no better under the New Deal than they were under the Hoover regime.

"After a dozen years of Republican administration the country was close to a complete collapse, business was prostrate, banks were closed, farmers were close to ruin and the number of unemployed passed the 15,000,000 mark."

A former embattled educator, introduced as a possible 1940 presidential candidate at Dayton last night told a rally group that Republicans had learned "a few elementary things" in their six years as a minority party. Dr. Glenn Frank, ousted president of the University of Wisconsin and now chairman of the party program committee, said "we know now that we cannot get out of debt by going more and more hopelessly into debt."

gotiations to settle the $12,000,000 Bell Telephone case four months before the case was argued in the U. S. Supreme court," Herbert added that "his representation that I offered to settle that case is pure romance."

As assistant attorney general, Herbert helped to handle the rate case for five years.

"I have no apology for my participation in that case and Mr. Duffy nor any one else can truthfully point to any criticism of my participation in it," Herbert said.

A recent Supreme court decision in the case, which has been pending for several years, ordered refunds to telephone subscribers totaling about $7,000,000.

Herbert accused Duffy of using funds intended for printing attorney general's opinions for refurnishing his offices and a "den" in the state house annex at Columbus.

Herbert said the charge of a 70-30 deal against Bricker, the Republican candidate for governor, has "never been proved, and there is nothing in the affidavit produced by Charles Sawyer, his opponent, to indicate how Sawyer ever arrived at those 70-30 figures."

"Besides," he added, "those same engineers who are being used by Sawyer as 'proof' were the men he criticized in his primary campaign against Gov. Davey."

Using the radio broadcast scare of last Sunday night as an example of mass hysteria, Mrs. Wetzel, who spoke here at a rally last week, said: "That same thing has happened to the nation under the spell of President Roosevelt, who is as effective an actor as the one on the radio program. But the people like to be fooled," she said.

The president, she said, "is not a dictator yet, but it's not his fault. No man in the nation's history has ever been allowed the money he's had, and if he is not stopped by the election of Republican senators and congressmen this fall, we will have a dictatorship in this country. The nation is too big for any one man."

Judge Kalbfleisch asserted that "the Democrats would have us believe that only Roosevelt can handle the relief problem, but common reason tells you that what relief problem there was under Republican administrations was handled adequately."

Adding that Sawyer has never proved that Bricker made the alleged deal with Gov. Davey, Judge Kalbfleisch said: "In judicial bodies we see a man as innocent until he is proved guilty. Until then his denial of the accusation is sufficient."

Woodward repeated his statement that "this is a campaign between Americanism and the New Deal policies, and if we don't do something to stop the New Deal next Tuesday, it may be too late by 1940."

Maxwell, the Republican candidate for the state legislature, charged that Ralph Lutz, his Democratic incumbent opponent, "voted to close the last session of the legislature and halted the investigation of the Davey administration which later developments have proved needed investigation."

With their campaign rallies completed, Republicans will hold "open house" tonight at party headquarters on North Main street.

John Hess, central committee chairman, said the headquarters would be available to party members and their families for cards or visiting.

Hess said approximately 5,000 persons had attended rallies at headquarters during the campaign, exclusive of two Townsend meetings. Largest attendance was at the John W. Bricker meeting early in the campaign and the Herbert rally last night, each attracting about 1,000 persons.

ELECT
BROWN
Democratic Candidate
STATE SENATOR

Elect a State Senator who will concern himself with the interests of Richland County and the district, rather than devoting his time and energy to state wide affairs. Maurice C. Brown is that man!

Mr. Brown is a typical example of the higher type men who are now entering politics. No mere job seeker—he does not seek a livelihood from the taxpayer! He has been successful in many executive positions by his own ability and intelligence.

Elected in 1937 as councilman-at-large, his work in city council has been impressive. He sponsored and championed the present Lorain Bus Franchise which saved the jobs of the former street railway employes—and has been an active leader for those measures that would best benefit the people of Lorain.

Mr. Brown was drafted by his party to run for nomination for State Senator in the 27th-29th District. This in itself is an interesting commentary on the man—because it proves the office is seeking the man and NOT the man, the office. Mr. Brown won the nomination by comfortable majorities in Lorain, Medina, and Ashland counties (3 out of the 4 counties comprising the district).

Mr. Brown, born and raised on a farm, knows the very real problem of the farmer; as a construction worker and executive, he can appreciate labor's viewpoint. His recent endorsement by Lorain County's non-Partisan League (made up of 31 Union organizations) was voted because of his willingness to champion justifiable rights for labor.

His business training has equipped him with first hand knowledge of the many problems that confront large and small business men.

Maurice C. Brown is pledged to give his constituents efficient, conscientious service, with equal consideration for all.

Dies Committee Turns Spotlight On Bund Activities

PRESIDENT OF GROUP CALLED FOR INQUIRY

Investigators Turn Attention to New Phases After Hearing of Ohio 'Red' Activities.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The Dies committee investigating un-American activities today turned its inquiry once again on the German-American bund.

The committee scheduled two Milwaukee witnesses to testify regarding the activities of the bund, the Silver Shirts and the Protective league and allied organizations in Wisconsin. Those called were Bernhard Hoffman, president of the State Federation of German-American societies of Wisconsin, and Le Roy Schulz, vice chairman of the Protective league.

2,000 Storm Meeting.

John C. Metcalfe, committee investigator, also was scheduled to testify, Chairman Martin Dies (D) of Texas, said. Some of the testimony will concern the activities of the German alliance of Milwaukee, he added. The alliance was recently involved in a near riot at the Milwaukee municipal auditorium when more than 2,000 persons stormed a meeting.

The committee late yesterday heard testimony from an Ohio national guard officer to the effect that a Communist who directed a campaign of wholesale dynamiting during the Warren, O., Republic Steel strike last year got off with a $500 fine paid by the steel workers organizing committee of the CIO, although four lieutenants went to the penitentiary for their participation.

The witness, Lester J. Abele, Cleveland attorney and adjutant of the 73rd brigade of the Ohio national guard, said that confessions of three of the four now serving sentences in the Ohio penitentiary, named Gus Hall as the leader of the dynamiting plot. An earlier witness, Edgar Herzog of Elyria, O., an "undercover" member of the Communist party, and chairman of the Ohio American Legion un-American activities committee, had testified that Hall had "bossed" the Warren strike while on the payrolls of both the CIO and the Communist party.

Both witnesses charged that Hall had imported dynamite and nitro-glycerine from Oil City, Pa., and had organized and directed the dynamiting squad. Originally indicted along with the four sentenced, for illegal use of explosives, a penitentiary offense, Hall escaped imprisonment by pleading guilty to a lesser charge, punishable by fine, according to Abele.

Exploding Water Tank Perils Life Of Mansfielder

An accident in which a Mansfield woman escaped possible death two days ago was brought to the attention of city authorities today when Plumbing Inspector Fred Haag was called to the home of C. R. Smeltzer, 331 West Fourth street, to investigate a water tank explosion.

Smeltzer told authorities that the explosion of the tank, which blew up through the kitchen floor, narrowly missed striking his sister-in-law who was alone in the house at the time.

A large hole in the floor and a broken beam in the cellar today was evidence of the force with which the cold storage tank had exploded under what was believed to have been excess pressure. Smeltzer estimated the damage at $200.

Smeltzer explained that the tank was a cold water reservoir used to store cistern water during the summer. It was filled by an electric power pump.

He said the pump had been shut off about three months ago and city water turned into the tank when the cistern supply ran low.

Authorities investigating the explosion today had not determined the cause of the accident.

It doesn't seem possible that 10 cents could worry a fellow for 25 years, but it did the anonymous writer who sent 10 cents to J. O. Purdy, Shelby, this week. Purdy operated a grocery store in Gambier some years ago and the letter confessed that the writer had stolen an orange from him when he was a schoolboy there 25 years ago, and that he has worried about it ever since. He was recently converted to a religious faith and the only way he could relieve his conscience was to send payment for the orange, the letter said.

Shocker, 10 Boughton avenue, also served the railroad for a half century. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shocker are in Mansfield for the week-end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Palmer, West First street.

And speaking of Mansfield in the national magazines, the two pages in this week's Liberty of Mansfield people, scenes and homes, has been the means of two war buddies finding each other. R. B. Gardner, Mansfield auto dealer, received a letter yesterday from Walter Rouche, an attorney of Phoenix, Ariz., with whom he had buddied in France, but who had been lost in the shuffle after the Armistice. Rouche said he had never heard of Gardner until his picture appeared in Liberty. Gardner, unaware of his old friend's location, passed through Phoenix by motor only a few weeks ago when he returned from the Legion convention in California.

METZENBAUM HAS OWN STYLE OF CAMPAIGN—FORGETS SELF

Just as Irene Castle started a new era in feminine coiffeurs, just as Walter Winchell launched a new type of newspaper writing, so James Metzenbaum, former state senator and Democratic candidate for attorney general has introduced an absolutely new type of campaigning.

He never talks about himself, his record or his campaign.

This small, fiery "knight without armor," who tilted lances with the most powerful political machine in Ohio history, undeterred by the fact that he was fighting his own party leaders, gets up on a campaign platform and talks about everything but himself.

He never, in any of his speeches, refers to the things he has accomplished for the welfare of his state or his city; he never mentions the fact that he played a leading part in drafting and putting through the School Foundation bill; in leading the way to final enactment of the Unemployed Insurance act; of his work on the Cleveland board of education; nor his winning, before the United States supreme court the right of every city to enact zoning ordinances.

He never mentions the fact that his people were pioneers of Cleveland and have lived there for five generations. But most unbelievable of all in this day of publicizing individual charities, he has never let it be known that all of his salary in public office has been turned over to charities. The information comes unsolicited from the state auditor's office.

Although Metzenbaum, who led the senate investigation of Davey's administration, and worked weeks without pay, has always lived in the city, he believes that the country and rural sections of his state are as important as the urban areas and he is constantly trying to bind them together.

And finally, this small "warrior" rides alone—he doesn't take an entourage with him on his campaign trips.

Sharon Motorist Convicted in City Court, Fined $75.

Convicted on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol when arraigned before Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch Friday, Maurice Hodge, Sharon, Pa., was fined $75 and costs and his driver's license revoked for one year.

Hodge was arrested early last Sunday on U. S. route 30, three miles east of Mansfield, by State Highway Patrolman L. D. Alexander, who said the man drove his car into a ditch, narrowly averted a collision with the patrol car that was parked at the scene of an accident which he was investigating.

Six witnesses were called to the stand by the state, among them Dr. Herman Gunn of Ashland, an authority on urine tests for determining the degree of intoxication, who examined Hodge following his arrest. He testified that the man was "definitely intoxicated."

SENDS TROOPS ACROSS RIVER IN FIRST MOVE

Czechoslovak Soldiers Leave Danube Island to Make Way for 'Conquerors.'

(By United Press)

BERLIN — The final stage of Czechoslovakia's dismemberment was started today.

By agreement between Czechoslovak and Hungarian military commissioners, Hungarian troops at dawn began throwing pontoon bridges across the Danube river from the Hungarian bank to the Czechoslovak island of Shuett, first of five occupation zones in the territory ceded to Hungary under a German-Italian arbitration award.

Hungarian troops crossed the bridges at 10 a. m. and thus took over the first occupation zone, from which Czechoslovak soldiers had been withdrawn.

Loses 16,000 Miles.

Since the German-Italian-British-French dismemberment agreement signed at Munich Sept. 29, Czechoslovakia had been deprived of 16,077 square miles of territory, containing 4,899,000 people, to satisfy German, Polish and Hungarian claims to minority areas. She was left with a little over 38,000 square miles of territory and about 10,500,000 people.

Germany on Oct. 1 started occupying an area of Sudetenland comprising 10,885 square miles and containing an estimated 3,595,000 people.

Poland next day occupied the Teschen area comprising 405 square miles and containing 240,000 people.

Hungary's share was 4,787 square miles and 1,064,000 people.

A Czechoslovak-Hungarian military commission, meeting at Bratislava yesterday, completed details of a five stage occupation of the Hungarian minority area.

The five main zones and the days of occupation are: Shuett island today; Ersekujvar and Leva Sunday: Losonc and Romaszombas Monday; the Hernad valley Tuesday, and Beregszasz Wednesday.

With the completion of the occupation, the Hungarian parliament will be convoked to recognize the cession of territory and enact legislation incident to it.

Not That It Matters

New Champion for Cause Of Partiality, Prejudice In Business of Writing

—By JANE WILLIAMS

IF YOU want people to read what you write, says Inez Robb, highest paid newspaperwoman in the world, who addressed Ohio newspaperwomen at their convention in Cleveland last week, you can't afford to be impartial, unbiased and unprejudiced.

You must, said this fragile scribe whose fiery temper frequently has prompted her to tell the biggest and best Stuffed Shirts where they can go, have definite convictions, right or wrong, and then write about them, defend them, beat the drum for them, and tell all opposition to go fly a kite. No one, she says, is the least bit interested in impartiality these days.

Which was balm to one who frequently sticks out her neck on a conviction or prejudice, only to have those who disagree send a deluge of protests down on her or her paper.

It's all a matter of spouting your opinions. The columnist usually gets paid for it, while the writers of protest letters merely have the satisfaction of "busting-off" publicly or privately. The thing is that when you are so impartial that you please everyone—no one reads your stuff.

* * *

MISS ROBB, who knows the most fascinating stories about Headline biggies—and will tell 'em off-the-record—says that two American women will go down in history as symbols; Wallis, Duchess of Windsor, will go down as the Helen of Troy of modern history and the symbol of 20th century glamor; and Barbara Hutton as the unhappy symbol of the economic and social unrest of this century. Barbara, like her pappy, rates a "zero minus" on Miss Robb's list of Personages. The trouble with Mr. Hutton, says Miss Robb, is that he can't see that one hundred million dollars is awfully, awfully funny.

* * *

COLUMNIST Boake Carter had his hide peeled right off'en him this week by Columnist Elsie Robinson for his unkind take-off on Eleanor Roosevelt's column "My Day." And well did he deserve it, although Elsie, one of my favorite persons, let her righteous anger run away with her judgment.

It was poor taste of Carter to make fun of a writer whose chief business in life isn't writing, for one thing; and for another no writer is so doggone good that he or she can publicly ridicule another.

But when Elsie, whose impetuosity is equalled only by her heart and sympathies which are as big as all outdoors, says that Mrs. Roosevelt's courage and cheerfulness and her democratic sanity have done so much to hold this "nation steady in the face of chaos," one guesses that her personal feeling has beclouded her judgment.

No one can reasonably question Mrs. Roosevelt's courage, her friendliness, nor her democracy, but only future historians can give an unbiased summation of the part she has played in this chaotic era. And when that summing up is done, it will have to be remembered that it was her life-long friendship with Frances Perkins that brought that lady's appointment to the most important place in the cabinet — with resultant chaos to both business and labor. Neither the present millions who love Mrs. Roosevelt, nor the millions who dislike her, will name her place in history.

* * *

ALL of you women who get tired of playing bridge and doing the housework should hearken to the story of Ruth MacKay, of Chicago, who turned up at the O.N.W.A. convention in Cleveland. Think she's a cousin or something of Eleanor Clarage and was in Cleveland to talk about her new book, "Money Without Men."

She's an everyday sort of person, whose life has been comfortable but uneventful until recently. She always wanted to write, but she had her home, her husband and a couple of youngsters. And there didn't seem to be anything to write about. She was as dumb as the average woman about financial matters, budgets, bonds, investments, taxes, real estate and things like that.

So she went to night school to learn about them—just to enlighten herself — and found them so easy to understand that she started writing about them. Not the usual things with big, legal words, but the sort of explanation that one woman might make to another. She wrote a lot of material and then, shaking at her own temerity, sent it to Farrar and Rinehart—and they snapped it up.

* * *

MRS. H. O. D. of Plymouth wants me to start a campaign against the jazzing-up of old classics. I'm afraid there isn't much to be done about it, so long as so many people prefer jazz to the classics.

It might have some effect if all of us who cringe at jazzing the old songs would write to a radio station and program sponsor every time it happens and merely say:

"I turned off your program the other night because you have so little originality that you must 'jazz' or 'swing' the classics. And I won't buy your advertised products so long as you permit it."

FAIR ENOUGH!

Public Seems to Regard Success In Business as Matter Needing Apology

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Insidiously, these last few years, there has developed in the mind of this country a sense that success in business or the professions or in whatever field is somewhat a matter of apology and reproach, rather than for satisfaction and pride.

Of course, hereditary millionaires always did command the contempt of the people, largely because so many of them, though only one or two generations away from the red cloth on the kitchen table, were conspicuous for their frivolity.

One could scan the records of the famous rich families of Newport—the set which, incidentally, popularized casual divorce—and find not a single achievement to the credit of any descendant, offshoot or in-law of any of the original buccaneers, who, in some cases, did contribute to the country's development by promoting railroads, mines and industries.

Nowadays, however, inheritances are reduced by taxes, so that, unless the descendants of a wealthy man keep hustling, the wheel comes a full turn and they find themselves approximately where the old man started.

Investments wash out, too, so the challenge to the common man's sense of proportion and economic justice should not be as flagrant as it was in the time of the late Harry Lohr, the memorable he-hoyden of the old regime.

Only a few members of the so-called cafe society of New York today would be worth $10 a frisk, and some of them are frankly and commercially on the mooch at resort hotels, trading the prestige of their names for their room and keep.

Some of the more intelligent old-time booties of the speakeasy period, who carry on now with joints described as swank, could a tale unfold about the impecuniosity of certain scions and scionesses of cafe society. After all, a society cafe is just a saloon with a band.

It could be said, however, that there are many energetic and able citizens doing better than just fair, who have no taste for saloon life. The drive is still working in ambitious men, some of whom manage to succeed and under much more stringent rules than governed competition in the old days.

Yet there is a sort of feeling that it is unsporting, if not unpatriotic, of a man to make good and make some money while so many others lack or cannot press opportunities. If a man does come along, even under the extraordinary difficulties of the time, there is a suspicion that he stole it.

Perhaps he doesn't deserve to be cheered in the streets, but neither should he be put under suspicion on the mere ground of having done well, as often happens in the political oratory of New Deal statesmen.

The psychological effort of this is to ennoble not only misfortune but failure, from whatever cause, including incompetence and sloth, and to put a blame and a brake on ambition in men but for whose enterprise, ability, and hard work there would be neither job nor taxes nor any possibility of recovery under capitalism.

RE-DEDICATION OF ST. PAUL'S SET FOR SUNDAY

2 Services to Mark Finish of $2,500 Redecorating, Lighting Program.

Two services Sunday at St. Paul Lutheran church will mark the rededication of the church following a $2,500 redecorating and lighting program carried on during the past four weeks.

The first service will be at 10:30 a. m. with Dr. D. Bruce Young, pastor of the First Lutheran church and mayor of Shelby, as guest speaker. The second will be a musical program at 7:03 p. m.

Music during the morning service will include selections by a trio made up of Ernest Shafer, cello, Ralph Beilstein, violin, and O. L. Seybold, organ, and the anthems "Nunc Dimittis" by Luvas, and "Unfold Ye Portals" by Gounod. The rededication liturgy will be read by Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor.

In the evening a program of vocal music will be presented, which will feature the Westinghouse Glee club, directed by Lawrence Chamberlain. The club will sing "The Lost Chord" by Sullivan, a group of selected hymns, and "Trust Ye In the Lord" by Petrie, with a soprano obligato by Miss Jane Weuthrick.

A mixed quartet made up of Miss Weuthrick, Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Gilbert and Lawrence Chamberlain, will sing "Holy Father Cheer the Way," and "God Is My Guide" by Schubert.

Choir Presents 3 Anthems.

The church choir will present three anthems, "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones," Virgil et Sancti—A German melody 1623, "The Radiant Morn Hath Passed Away" by Woodard, and "The Lord Is My Light" by Parker. "Open the Gates of the Temple" will be sung as a solo by Miss Weuthrick with a violin obligato by Ralph Beilstein.

The redecorating program, in addition to renovating the auditorium and Sunday school rooms, includes many improvements to the church. The ceiling beams have been grained and restored to wood, as have the pillars holding the Roman arches in the chancel, and the walls have been carried out in a Tiffany blend. Cove lighting has been installed behind the chancel arches, and six lanterns have been suspended from the beam work. The altar has been rebuilt, metal covers have been placed over the radiators, and new carpet has been laid in the chancel.

Rev. Gilbert will complete his sixth year as pastor of the church Dec. 1, coming here from Lucas. The congregation is now in its 86th year, and will celebrate the 40th anniversary of the church building April 9, next year.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY!

Preaches Here

Dr. D. Bruce Young, above, pastor of the First Lutheran church of Shelby, and mayor of that city, will be the guest speaker Sunday at 10:30 a. m. at the St. Paul Lutheran church, a rededication service marking the completion of a redecoration and lighting program at the church.

BACK TO CHURCH MOVE BECOMES REALITY SUNDAY

Attendance Expected to Climb as 'Religious Recovery' Campaign Opens.

Tomorrow is the day when every Mansfielder is asked to attend services in some house of worship, for it is the opening of the "religious recovery" movement in the city, the day that has been designated as Back-to-Church Sunday.

Churches throughout the city are taking part in the movement and a decided increase in attendance is expected.

Attention will be focused on the churches tomorrow as playing an important part in civic as well as religious affairs. Tomorrow is also Red Cross Sunday in Mansfield, and pastors will bring the annual Roll Call message to their congregations.

Lauds Red Cross.

"The Red Cross," Rev. James Boyer, president of the Richland County Ministerial association pointed out today, "represents a natural application of the religious principles of helpfulness. Ever ready to be of service in the event of disaster, the Red Cross expresses the heart of humanity."

Church members also will get invitations from the Salvation Army tomorrow to take part in its celebration of the 40th anniversary of its establishment in Mansfield.

The Salvation Army band from Barbarton will play at the Back-to-Church services at the Park Avenue Baptist church at 10:30 a. m. The morning service follows the regular Sunday school, with the intermediate and senior departments united with the adult group for the worship services.

The Barberton band, led by Major Clarence Ditmer, formerly head of the Mansfield Salvation Army corps, also will provide music at the Sunday school services at St. Matthew's Lutheran church. "Why Go to Church?" will be Rev. C. F. Sheriff's sermon topic.

NEW LINCOLN HEIGHTS CHURCH WILL BE DEDICATED TOMORROW

The new First Church of the Brethren in Lincoln Heights, constructed at a cost of about $10,000, will be dedicated at services at 2 p. m. Sunday.

The dedication sermon will be delivered by Dr. Otho Winger, president of Manchester college, North Manchester, Ind., for the past 25 years. Dr. Winger also will speak during the evening service at 7:30.

Returning to take part in the dedication will be Rev. W. L. Desenberg of Ashland, first pastor of the church. Rev. Desenberg will lead the worship period.

Other pastors participating in the ceremony will be Rev. D. F. Stucky of Paris, O., who will give the invocation; Rev. C. H. Deardorff of Ashland, elder of the church who will be in charge of the dedication of gifts; Rev. M. M. Taylor of Louisville, O., who will give the prayer; and Rev. Blake Million, pastor of the Richland Church of the Brethren, who will give the benediction.

A history of the church will be given by Rev. W. Glenn McFadden, present pastor of the church. Music will be furnished by a male quartet from the Ashland Church of the Brethren and Mrs. Sara Fulwider, who will sing a solo. A treasurer's report will be given by Mrs. Charles Kline.

During the morning worship at 11 a. m., Rev. McFadden will speak on the subject, "Why This Church?" The worship period will be led by Rev. G. S. Straubaugh of Columbiana, O., and music will be furnished by a ladies' quartet. Beginning Monday at 7:30 p. m., Prof. J. O. Winger, brother of Dr. Winger, and a field representative of Manchester college, will preach during a series of nightly services.

Construction of the new edifice was started May 1. The church will seat 200 persons, and is constructed of brick and tile, with Sunday school rooms in the basement.

The congregation was organized 12 years ago, and since then has held services in the Lincoln Heights school.

Members of the church building committee were John W. Kline, chairman, Paul M. Garverick, Charles W. Kline, Edwin Jacoby and R. A. Fulewider.

TRIBUTE TO DEAD

Episcopal Church Conducts Memorial Rites Tomorrow.

A memorial service for members of the Grace Episcopal church who have died within the past year will be held at 11 a. m. Sunday in charge of Rev. Milton G. Nicola, pastor.

Major Harold Smith of the Salvation Army corps of New York will speak. Church members who have died within the past year will be remembered in prayer and bequests and legacies for the year will be read.

Music will be presented by the boys' choir. Solo numbers will include, "The Lord's Prayer" by Malloet, sung by Richard Wright, and "Psalm 23," by Turle, sung by David Weimer. A trio, comprised of George Porterfield, Jerome Kaler and William Nicola will sing, "Peace, Perfect Peace," and Paul Pfahler and George Knackstedt will sing "Asleep in Jesus."

An eclipse of the moon is scheduled for next Monday night, with political landslides forecast in widely scattered areas the following day.

Five Ballots for Mansfield Voters.

BEFORE going to the polls next Tuesday voters should know about the ballots that will be handed to them, and should also have decided how they are going to vote.

They will thus save time, avoid becoming confused, and will be less likely to make a mistake.

Remember, first of all, that ballots must be marked with a BLACK lead pencil!

Mansfield voters will receive five ballots, each of which is to be marked in voting for candidates or issues.

Largest of these is the political party ballot, on which appears the Democratic and Republican tickets, headed by candidates for governor and extending down to county candidates. This ballot also includes the names of candidates for United States senator, congressman and state senator.

Space is provided before each of the names for an "x" mark to express the voter's preference, with a circle at the top to vote a "straight" ticket.

Best method for independent voting is to mark an "x" in front of the name of each candidate being voted for.

The non-partisan judicial ballot provides for election of a chief justice of the Ohio supreme court, three judges of the supreme court, and a judge of the court of appeals in this district. There is no party designation of candidates on this ballot and it is necessary for voters to know whom they wish to support.

On a small, narrow ballot appears the proposal to amend the constitution of Ohio to provide for appointment of judges of the state supreme court and court of appeals. There are spaces for a "Yes" or "No" vote on this proposal. An official publicity pamphlet, with arguments for and against this proposed change, has been mailed to voters from the office of the secretary of state.

In Richland county a small ballot will present the proposal to vote a one-half mill tax levy to provide money to care for tubercular patients who are unable to meet the cost of necessary treatment.

In Mansfield voters are also asked to express themselves on a proposal to establish a board of park commissioners to have charge of maintenance and improvement of public parks in this city.

It is being predicted that next Tuesday's election will draw out an unusually large vote. There will be an advantage in voting as early as possible in the day. Polling places will open at 6:30 a. m. and close at 6:30 p. m.

The right to vote is a fundamental of self government. If YOU do not vote why should ANYBODY vote? If your RIGHT to vote were threatened you would fight to retain it!

Your most important duty, as an American citizen, is to VOTE! Don't neglect to vote next Tuesday.

Ashbrook vs. Townsendism.

THE issue involved in the contest for congressman in this district is entirely clear.

It hinges wholly on the Townsend pension "plan," through which many elderly people have been deluded into believing it is possible for workers to give non-producers above the age of 60 a pension of $200 a month.

The contest is between the present experienced, capable and clear-thinking congressman, William A. Ashbrook, on the Democratic ticket, and Walter B. Woodward, of near Bellville, this county, who was nominated on the Republican ticket by uniting the strength of Democratic and Republican Townsendites against two other candidates in the Republican primaries last August.

Congressman Ashbrook, long known as "Pension Bill," can be depended upon to actively support sound pension legislation, as well as to creditably represent this district and care for the interests of his constituents.

The votes of all thoughtful persons, regardless of political party affiliation, should be cast for re-election of Congressman Ashbrook.

Czechs Have Something Left.

THE plight of Czechoslovakia may not be so bad, after all, in the opinion of Henry C. Wolfe, writing in the Commentator. The country "still has most of its heavy industry; it retains all of its world-famous shoe industry; it has most of its celebrated beer industry, including the great Pilsen breweries; it retains a large part of the alcohol and sugar industries, and it still has some of its textile factories." It also retains valuable anthracite reserves, timber and rich agricultural lands

The writer also finds cheer in the idea that in losing the Sudeten Germans, the Czechs are losing liabilities, because half of their unemployment was in the Sudeten land. And besides, most of the Sudeten residents were a political obstacle rather than an asset. The alienated Sudetens themselves, he thinks, will soon realize that they have made a mistake, for if Hitler runs amuck and cracks up his third reich, they will crack up with it.

It is well for the Czechs, and for their friends in other lands, shocked by the way they were sold out to Hitler, to find what scraps of comfort they can in the situation.

Nile Warships.

NOW Egypt is rearming, too. That nominally independent country, under British protection, has created a Council of Defense which will build a fleet of 36 vessels at a cost of $17,500,000.

It is mere pocket money compared with the expenditures of the big naval powers, yet may provide the strongest native fleet Egypt has had since the time of Cleopatra. The vessels, though, will hardly be of much use except for local policing.

Most folks were probably surprised to discover that there is a competing program during the Charlie McCarthy hour.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—The monument that Secretary Swanson will leave to commemorate his name in the navy will be his effort to inject broad culture into the country's water-borne fighters.

Recently he issued a list of 152 books from which fledgling officers fresh from Annapolis must choose a minimum of six to be read during the coming 18 months. Each officer must submit a 1,000-word report on one book every three months, each from a different group.

If Ensign Jones decides to read Link's "Return to Religion" on his cruise to Bali or Paris he must desert the field of philosophy on his next voyage into learning.

* * *

Gotta Mix 'Em Up.

HE MAY select Davenport's "Heredity In Relation to Eugenics" to read on the return from the Shanghai patrol or Swift's "How to Influence Men," both from the zone of psychology.

On a six months' siege of shore duty he can take up Mehnert's "Youth In Soviet Russia" or Riis' "How the Other Half Lives," during the first three months. The second three months he may switch from sociology to economics by reading Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold's "The Folklore of Capitalism" or Spahr's "Economic Principles and Problems." He is a sucker if he takes the latter. It comes in two volumes. He might better enjoy "Economics for Everybody From the Pyramids to the Sit Down Strike."

That will knock over four books and leave him five fields of knowledge from which to pick the remaining two. He can browse his way around the world in foreign policy or take a turn in science by reading Zinsser's "Rats, Lice and History."

(At this point we pause to note that Secretary Swanson's choice is at least comprehensive.)

* * *

'Tis Hearty, Me Hearties.

UNDER the head of biography the fingerling officer may read the "Autobiography of Benvenuto Cellini," which we can assure any seagoing man is hearty stuff in spots. That Aryan Italian had a way with gold and debutantes.

Under the head of travel, Richard Halliburton is an entry with "The Royal Road to Romance"; in the Fine Arts the officer can have a go at Mumford's "Sticks and Stones: A Study of American Architecture and Civilization."

After coursing through this pond of learning which the navy is expected to absorb, we buttonholed the army to learn what it was doing to cultivate its higher senses. There is nothing in the regulations, but an authoritative source insisted that army men volutarily read more now by two to one than the civil population and maybe more than the navy.

* * *

Sammy Studies, Too.

THE army library circulation totals 1,450,000 books a year of heavy duty stuff, no Alger books among 'em. Apportioned among some 185,000 fighting men, that averages more than seven books a year. In China station and other outlying posts, the reading capacity hits the total of 17 books a year from the library, not counting books the men and officers dig up on their own.

While the army has no "must" list of cultural reading, sometimes outlying generals take the thing in hand. Gen. Harbord, Pershing's chief of staff in France, once suggested that officers in his command (this was shortly after the war) would enjoy a list of 100 books which he said had helped him to succeed. The rush for the list was something more than enthusiastic. Harbord retired as a major general and now is chairman of the board of Radio Corporation of America, showing that it pays to read a good book.

THE COVER CHARGE DULLS THE APPETITE

Blocs Useful In Holding Balance

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Postmaster General James A. Farley doubtless is right in his prediction that the United States will remain a "two-party country" indefinitely.

That is to say, it probably will continue to be run by only two parties with recognized names of their own and cohesive enough to hold national conventions of any consequence.

What the P. M. G. seems to me not to take into account is the fact that, while we do not have, in congress, any number of explicitly designated blocs, we do have the blocs. We have a number of them. Their various members all are roughly classed, respectively, as Democrats or Republicans.

Really, however, both major memberships are considerably split-up. If this were Europe, each sub-group would have a particular label, distinguishing it from all others. Here we don't acknowledge such differences; all hands are spoken of as Democrats or Republicans, with an occasional freak independent.

Yet we do have blocs, as truly as France's national assembly, which recognizes a dozen or fifteen.

How They Classify.

Illustratively, Vice President John N. Garner and Senators Harry F. Byrd, Carter Glass, Millard E. Tydings and Josiah W. Bailey, plus several others, constitute a bloc, as unlike the Alben W. Barley-Homer T. Bone-Claude Pepper-Elmer Thomas, et. al. bloc as day is unlike night. If Senators Glass and Pepper are fellow Democrats, sheep are goats.

Senators Warren R. Austin, Ernest W. Gibson, and Frederick Hale, with a handful of supporters, so-called Republicans, are a bloc. They're a lot like Senators William E. Borah, Arthur Capper and Lynn J. Fraizer, also supposedly Republicans, aren't they? Echo answers vociferously in the negative.

Then there are a few mavericks, like Senators Robert M. La-Follette, Henrik Shipstead, Ernest Lundeen and George W. Norris. They're another bloc—if they can stick together. If not, they're four additional blocs.

That makes five or ten Senate "blocs" alone. The House of Representatives is equally bloc-ish

And P. M. G. Farley calls this a two-party country!

It's a very annoying situation to professional politicians.

A "fixer," like "Jim" Farley so frames things up that, as Democratic national chairman, his side wins at the polls. Subsequently he discovers that he can't hold his blocs together on Capitol Hill. That was demonstrated at the last session of congress. The Democratic administration had an overwhelming majority—and was beaten on its pet plans. Why? Because of blocs. Not Republican blocs, but miscellaneous blocs.

Useful In Their Way.

"Blocs" are governmentally representative in their way.

They merge as public opinion trends in an especial direction, and that makes them a temporary majority. Then there's a shift in public sentiment; the merger disintegrates, and there's a new merger. Blocs break up and reamalgamate in new combinations.

That Jim Farley is a "d"emocrat because he's a "D"emocrat I don't for a minute believe. He may be, but it doesn't necessarily follow.

Nor do I believe that Senator Carter Glass necessarily is a Fascist or a Nazi or a Communist because he isn't a New Dealer.

Blocs are a good thing.

They maintain an even balance.

Is Chivalry On the Way Out?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE'S deeply disturbed by her sons' attitude towards their girl friends. In every other way they're model youths—honest, good-natured generous, hard-working—all that a proud mother might desire. But when it comes to women—

"They're savages!" she wails.

Of course, she hastily adds, the girls themselves are largely to blame. Brazen young things with no more manners than a flock of parrots! What a contrast with "the lovely, refined young ladies" of the '90's! But even so, they are women. And as such, "entitled to every consideration."

But do they get it? Does brawny Bill spring to his feet when fragile Fanny enters the room? Does cheerful Charlie insist—as every right-minded gentleman should—upon escorting his Lucille to her own doorstep after an evening's entertainment?

Not they! William remains where he is, merely grunts a welcoming "Squat, kid!" And Charlie, in defiance of all decency, reflects that it'll take two hours to go to Lucille's "dump" and a guy's gotta work in the morning! Which argument Lucille receives without batting an eyelash, and proceeds to drive herself home in her own flivver.

All of which is horrifying to their mother—and to many of her generation. What, cry they, has happened to the world? And where'll it all end if men continue to be so coarse and inconsiderate—and women continue to let 'em?

With all due regard for your outraged feelings, sisters, it will probably end in a much happier and infinitely more honest relationship between the sexes. For—sentimental theory to the contrary—chivalry was never the treat to ladies which is fondly supposed.

Men didn't actually have greater respect for women or show them "more consideration" in the Good Old Days. They made, it is true, more fancy gestures. But if you want to know what the Lord of Creation really thought about his little Bright Eyes 50 years ago—read the laws he made concerning her. Study her civil status. See how many rights she actually had—to her own liberty, her own property, her own children.

"MEN ONCE PLACED WOMEN ON A PEDESTAL!"

They did, indeed. And the little idiot thought it was a compliment! But it wasn't. No real reverence prompted that pedestal maneuver—as those laws attest. The lady was boosted up to get her out of the way while her master pursued his own devices, and for no other reason but!

In short, when it comes right down to practical performance, Woman, under Chivalry, had the rating of an infant or an imbecile. And all the poetical palaver was just an elaborate bluff.

THERE IS MORE REAL COOPERATION AND CONSIDERATION IN AN HOUR OF MODERN BOY AND GIRL COMPANIONSHIP THAN THERE WAS IN A LIFETIME OF THE OLD BOWING AND SCRAPING.

* * *

WHY SHOULD a young man be expected to provide a chair for a young woman, or doff his hat to her in an elevator? If she can beat him in a swimming contest, and hold down her own job beside him in an office, she's able to provide her own chair. And for this hat doffing—it's humanity's silliest gesture. Beauty and purity should always be reverenced, but a young clean girl is no more beautiful or pure than a clean young boy.

Is Chivalry on its way out? I suspect so—and I am glad. For something much finer and fairer is taking its place. The woman of the future will not be outwardly treated like an angel while actually rated as an idiot. She will be treated AS A HUMAN BEING—AND GIVEN REGARD AND CONSIDERATION ACCORDING TO HER OWN ACCOMPLISHMENT.

And that is the only kind of regard any honest woman wants.

Timely Editorial

Chance For the Railroads.

Three encouraging factors are present in the complicated railroad situation. The 15 per cent wage cut has been averted, at least for the present. The danger of a strike is minimized. Management and workers have indicated their willingnes to back a joint committee in drafting a program for rehabilitation of the lines.

The workers' suggestions listed by the railroad fact-finding board show constructive thought. There is hope for the transportation companies if they will seek management reforms instead of merely running to the federal government and saying, "Gimme." If bosses and workers can co-operate in drafting a program for the railroads, a new era certainly will open for this great industry.—Toledo Blade.

What's Happened?

Week-End Summary of Current Events.

THE U. S. has close to 80,000,000 people of voting age. A little less than half voted in the 1934 congressional elections. A little more than half voted in the Roosevelt-Landon presidential contest two years ago. About half are expected to vote next Tuesday as 47 states (Maine voted in September) picks 32 governors, 35 U. S. senators and 432 members of the house of representatives.

Those 499 top jobs (281 lesser state posts also are to be filled) offer $11,500,000 in government pay checks, and 493 Democrats, 419 Republicans and 278 other candidates are after them. Their efforts to get them, as the campaign reached its climax this week, bathed the nation in a flood of warm words.

The Big Three.

The issues, besides the personalities of the candidates, include:

1 The prestige of the New Deal, whose adherents point-with-pride while its critics view-with-alarm. Democrats hold 24 of the governorships, 32 of the senate seats and 328 of the house seats at stake. Large Republican gains would be interpreted as a reaction against President Roosevelt's program. Moderate Democratic losses would leave the administration feeling it had ridden out the campaign storm pretty well.

2 The 1940 hopes of several potential presidential contenders, particularly gubernatorial fair-haired boys in their own parties if they win Tuesday. The general trend also will give political prophets a basis for speculation on the 1940 presidential outcome.

3 Legislative proposals (there are 130 of them on the ballots of 30 states), of which the most interesting are old-age pension schemes in half a dozen states, liquor control measures in six and proposals to regulate labor strike activity in three.

The Big Ten.

To gauge the national significance of the outcome, political observers will watch the returns from these key races:

In New York, the largest state, Democratic Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, 60, is opposed for a fourth term by Republican Thomas E. Dewey, 36, Manhattan racket buster; and Democratic Sen. Robert F. Wagner, the presidents pal, is trying to hold his job against John Lord O'Brian, a Republican serving the New Deal as a government attorney.

Pennsylvania is the scene of 1938's bitterest political battle, an old-fashioned mud-slinging affair. Gov. George H. Earle, elected four years ago as the state's first Democratic chief in decades, now wants the job held by Republican Sen. James J. Davis, who wants to keep it. For governor, the candidates are Republican Arthur H. James and Democrat Charles A. Jones.

In Wisconsin and Minnesota, third parties offer the most interesting fireworks. Wisconsin's Gov. Phil La Follette faces both Democratic and Republican opponents in his try for re-election as a Progressive. So does Minnesota's Gov. Elmer A. Benson in his re-election race as a Farmer-Laborite.

Iowa and Kansas are considered testing grounds for the popularity of the administration's farm program. In Iowa, Republican ex-Sen. Lester J. Dickinson wants to unseat Democratic Sen. Guy M. Gillette; and in Wansas, Republican ex-Gov. Clyde M. Reed is trying to persuade the farmers to send him to Washington in place of Democratic Sen. George McGill.

Indiana, political wisemen say, another midwest state worth watching. In the feature race, Democratic Sen. Frederick Van Nuys seeks re-election against Republican Raymond E. Willis, a small-town newspaper editor. Defeat for Van Nuys would put a damper on the 1940 presidential boom of Democratic ex-Gov. Paul V. McNutt.

Michigan and Ohio ballots carry the name of others you may hear more about in 1940—if they win this coming week: Democratic Gov. Frank Murphy, opposed for re-election in Michican by Republican ex-Gov. Frank Fitzgerald; and Republican Robert A. Taft, son of the former president, who is trying to unseat Ohio's Democratic Sen. Robert J. Bulkley.

In California, both top Democratic candidates—Sheridan Downey for senator and Cuthbert L. Olson for governor—have smiled on the $30-Every-Thursday pension scheme; and both top Republican candidates—Philip Bancroft for senator and Gov. Frank M. Merriam, seeking re-election — have appeared favorable toward measures to regulate strike picketing. But all have tried to soft pedal these matters lately, and President Roosevelt's endorsement of Downey and Olson this week increased the importance of the New Deal issue.

At Home

Dies Debate.

President Roosevelt tongue-lashed the congressional committee on un-American activities, last week, as a sounding board for disgruntled politicians. And the committee's chairman, Rep. Martin Dies of Texas, cracked back that the administration was trying to sabotage his inquiry.

In a radio speech, this week, Chairman Dies amplified that charge by accusing several federal agencies of refusing him the kind of co-operation they gave Sen. La Follette's investigation of civil liberties violations.

Rep Dies was followed on the air by Paul Y. Anderson, at St. Louis newspaper reporter. "Some of the most fantastic yarns ever heard outside of an insane asylum," said he, in a talk arranged by the National Democratic committee, "are gravely accepted by the committee without the faintest effort to discover whether the witnesses are credible or responsible."

* * *

Child Bride.

Medical records showed Rosie Columbus, of Prestonburg, Ky., was 10 years old, but her mother gave Rosie's age as 15, last week, and got Rosie a license to marry Fleming Tackett, 34, a widower coal miner. After the ceremony, Rosie and her mother, father, two brothers and sister moved into Tackett's new two-room log cabin. But the authorities decided the marriage was illegal and put Rosie, her mother and Tackett in jail. Rosie then was ordered placed in an orphanage.

* * *

Snatch Solved.

Arthur Fried, 32, walked out of his home in White Plains, N. Y., 11 months ago, and his family hasn't seen him since. G-Man J. Edgar Hoover, this week, told why. Fried was kidnaped, he said, and killed when his captors failed in an attempt to collect $200,000 ransom. Three of the kidnapers, Hoover added, had just been picked up in New York and a fourth was in prison.

QUOTES

Dr. Elliott C. Cutler, of Harvard Medical school: "If a doctor can't operate without a loss of blood, he should go out and sell bonds."

Julius Streicher, Nazi publisher: "So long as there is a single Jew in Germany, misfortune has not been finally taken from us."

Lady Astor, American-born British M. P.: "Nobody wants me as a cabinet minister and they are perfectly right. I am an agitator."

Business

Prophecy and Promises.

Business will be better in 1939, but not quite so good as in 1937, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics forecast this week. Almost simultaneously:

1. Utility executives promised to place orders at once for new equipment to strengthen America's defenses by expansion of private power facilities.

2. Jean C. Witter, 4, new president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, promised to co-operate with SEC and other regulatory bodies in efforts to reopen capital markets.

* * *

Job Notes.

Emporium, Pa., had to suspend its WPA street project because business got so good it absorbed all the county's unemployed laborers.

Robert Ley, Nazi labor front leader, asked recent German emigrants to return to "overcome an acute labor shortage in the fatherland."

Abroad

Words and Action.

Britain's prime minister, aging Neville Chamberlain, told the house of commons this week that the Spanish civil war is "no longer a menace to the peace of the world." At almost the same moment, Englishmen along the Norfolk coast watched an Insurgent gunboat shoot up a Spanish government freighter.

(The Insurgents, next day, bombed a British freighter at Valencia and shelled the vacant U. S. embassy at Madrid.)

Chamberlain's words drowned out the cannonading.

* * *

Beck Down.

Among the important Germans said to have opposed Hitler's threat to march into the Czech Sudetenland in September was Gen. Ludwig Beck, chief of the army general staff. This week Hitler announced he had accepted Gen. Beck's resignation. His successor is Lieut. Franz Halder, 54.

* * *

Palestine Problem.

About 2,000 people were killed or wounded in outbreaks of violence in Palestine from July 1, 1936, to July 1, 1938. Then Arab-Jewish friction flared into virtual civil war, and the casualties in the last four months were estimated this week at nearly 2,500—1,057 Arabs killed and 564 wounded, 211 Jews killed and 499 wounded, 40 British soldiers and policemen killed and 122 wounded.

* * *

War on Profiteers.

Guerrillas, says the dictionary, are petty, irregular warriors. But in China now they are neither petty nor very irregular. From 18 military headquarters, 250,000 peasants, coached in cheating by former college professors, are regularly wrecking trains and tricking and killing Japanese.
